Crowd Cheers German Flier

By Associated Press
New York—An audience of 6,000 persons cheered the playing of "Deutschland Ueber Alles" Monday night at a local theatre where the officers and crew of the Zies were guests of the management. There was no trace of unfriendliness when Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the glant dirigible on her transatlantic flight, made a speech in German.

When the spotlight was turned on the box where Dr. Eckener and his staff of officers were seated, he arose and asked permission to speak in German. There was no protest. He told the huge crowd that overflowed into the lobby that all misunderstanding between Germany and America was a thing of the past.

MISSION MEETING ATTRACTS 200 TO FIRST SESSION

Cedar Rapids Man Is Chief Speaker at Evangelical Church

Nearly 200 persons attended the first meeting of the cooperative missionary conference of Evangelical churches of Appleton district Monday night in Emmanuel Evangelical church, of which the Rev. A. Bernhardt is pastor. The conference is to continue through Wednesday. The speaker Monday evening was the Rev. C. H. Stauffer of Cedar Rapids, Ia., executive secretary of the Forward Movement.

The Rev. Mr. Stauffer's subject was "The Needs of a World in Distress and the Remedy of a Living Church." He pointed out the economic, physical, mental and religious distress of a non-Christian world and said that Christian religion is the remedy for all the wounds of the world may be healed by Jesus Christ.

Musical numbers were furnished by the quartet from the Young Peoples Missionary circle of the local church.

Tuesday morning the speakers were the Rev. B. R. Wiener, field secretary of the Missionary society, who spoke on Japan; the Rev. E. H. Niebel, executive secretary of the Missionary society, who lectured on China; and the Rev. Mr. Stauffer, who lectured on Africa. About 100 attended the session Tuesday morning.

The Rev. Mr. Bernhardt said Tuesday morning that all churches in the district except one were represented and that he expected a delegate from that church some time during the day.

Sessions are at 9 and 2 o'clock.

Wednesday morning a program on missionary education will be given with the Rev. Mr. Stauffer and Mrs. William Hauerwies of Milwaukee as the speakers. Bishop M. T. Maze of Harrisburg, Pa., will speak Wednesday afternoon and the Rev. Mr. Wiener will give a stereopticon lecture on mission fields Wednesday evening.

STOVES CAUSE TWO SMALL HOUSE FIRES

Two fires both caused by stoves occupied attention of the Appleton fire department Monday. The first call came at 11:45 Monday noon from the home of J. G. Schmidt, 550 Harrison st., where an oil stove had caught fire. At 5:45 firemen answered a call to the home of Michael Spelbauer, 641 Locust st., where a gas stove had started a blaze. Both fires were extinguished immediately.

POSSE SEEKS ROBBERS AFTER NIGHT GUNFIGHT

By Associated Press
Little Sioux, Ia.—A sheriff's posse and a score of citizens Tuesday were searching western Iowa for four bandits who robbed the vault of the Little Sioux Savings bank shortly after midnight, while residents of the village carried on a pistol fight with them. About $4,000 was obtained by the robbers. So far as is known, no one was injured.

Winnow of a number of homes were shattered by shots from the bandits.

Estimates Run as High as Plurality of 500,000 for Republican Nominee

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Contributions totaling $548,440 have been made to the Democratic national campaign fund to date, James W. Gerard, the party's national treasurer, testified Tuesday before the senate investigating committee.

Mr. Gerard estimated that the final total of the campaign would not exceed $750,000.

Democratic campaign expenditures became the subject of inquiry Tuesday by the special senate committee which put under way at Chicago last week an investigation into the source and distribution of funds by the Republican and Independent national organizations.

Clem L. Shaver, chairman, and James W. Gerard, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, were called as witnesses and were requested to give a full accounting from the inception of the campaign to as late a date as possible. The committee also wants them to submit later for publication sworn statements as to financial affairs of the committee under dates of Monday, Oct. 25, and Nov. 1.

After concluding with the Democratic officers, the committee will go back to its inquiry surrounding charges made by Senator Robert M. LaFollette, the independent presidential candidate. The first witness probably will be Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the shipping board, who is to be questioned on the basis of his recent inquiry in a public speech as to whether any in authority would deny that money had been sent to this country from Russia via Mexico to aid the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign.

Present expectations are that the inquiry will scarcely be concluded before election day, Nov. 4.

BRYAN TALKS TO ILLINOIS MINERS

Democratic Vice Presidential Candidate Starts Second Day of Tour

By Associated Press
Benton, Ill.—Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, Democratic nominee for vice president, started the second day of his southern Illinois campaign tour with an address here Tuesday. Two other speaking engagements were on Tuesday's schedule, one at Fairfield and the other at Robinson. All three towns in the heart of Illinois coal fields.

The remaining four days of the week will be spent by the vice presidential nominee in Ohio and Indiana. One of the cities in which he is to speak Thursday is Canton, Ohio, situated for Middletown, the home of James M. Cox, presidential candidate in 1920. Sullivan, Ind., will be the governor's stop Friday.

In speaking at Murphysboro Monday night, Governor Bryan told his audience, composed largely of the labor class, they would have to vote the Democratic ticket next month if they wanted relief from present problems confronting them. In voting the Democratic ticket, he said, the people of Illinois could redeem themselves.

SHIP HELIUM TO FILL DIRIGIBLE

By Associated Press
Fort Worth, Texas—The last of the helium for the ZR-3 will leave here by the end of October, it was announced Tuesday by Lieutenant Wicks in command of the local plant. The first cars of the 24 necessary to fill the big dirigible, left here last Monday for Lakehurst, N. J. Enough helium is on hand for refilling the Shenandoah which is now expected to tie up to the local mooring mast on Wednesday night or early Thursday. Orders call for 2,000,000 cubic feet of helium, which will fill about 14,000 metal drums for the ZR-3.

"This amount of helium, which will be sufficient to carry the ZR-3 already has been manufactured," Lieutenant Wicks said. "The last carloads probably will leave here the latter part of the month."

Women Play Big Part In British Race

By Associated Press
London—As the British election campaign progresses, reports from many parts of the country emphasize the accuracy of one prediction made at the outset—that the women would take a bigger part than ever before.

Not only are the 41 women parliamentary candidates drawing big audiences, but the wives and daughters and sisters of the male candidates are taking to the platform in their behalf with great success while the various political organizations are finding it difficult in some cases to employ all the women volunteers anxious to join in the fight. In some constituencies women helpers have been sent out in batches of 50 or more for canvassing tours calling at every house until the election.

After Month In Jail

This is Mrs. Elsie Sweetin's latest picture. It was taken when she was arraigned in the circuit court at Mount Vernon, Ill., for the murder of her husband, Byford Sweetin. She pleaded not guilty. Date of her trial and that of Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, accused of poisoning his wife and the other figure in the Hight-Sweetin love pact, has not been set.

Gem Robbers' Arrest May Solve Slayings

By Associated Press
New York—Four men arrested Tuesday morning of the west side apartment of Mrs. Helen Heyworth, fiancée of "Dapper Dan" Collins, internationally notorious thief.

A platinum diamond cluster ring resembling one stolen from Mrs. Heyworth was found in possession of one of the four.

After questioning the prisoners, the police also hope to throw light on the cases of Dorothy Keenan, Louis Lawson and Edith Robe. Miss Keenan and Miss Lawson, "Broadway butterflies," were killed by robbers who ransacked their apartments. Miss Robe and her wealthy male companion were held up in her apartment recently and robbed of jewelry valued at $50,000.

The four men were arrested after a bullet-riddled automobile had been found in a garage. Two of the men first were arrested for the holdup of Joseph Hofstein, from whom $200 was stolen on Saturday night on the street. Subsequent developments led to the arrest of the two others in their homes. The prisoners described themselves as Louis Fishkin of Manhattan, Abraham Grau, Jacob Kiviat and Louis Kiviat of Brooklyn. The diamond cluster ring was found in the possession of Fishkin.

A woman friend identified the ring as resembling Mrs. Heyworth's, confined to her bed from a nervous breakdown since the robbery. Mrs. Fishkin did not attempt to identify the ring.

Mrs. Heyworth was identified as the divorced wife of Otto Heyworth of Chicago, grandson and reputed heir of Otto Young of Chicago. When "Dapper Dan" Collins was arrested in Paris last spring and held for extradition to the United States to serve a sentence for robbery and swindling, Mrs. Heyworth offered to marry him in his cell. She followed Collins to this country. He now is serving his sentence on Welfare Island.

SIX NEARLY BURNED IN STORE FIRE

Six people barely escaped with their lives when the store building owned by M. M. McCone, which is located in the village of Deer Creek burned to the ground at 11:30 Monday night. Mr. McCone, who lives in Bear Creek, rented the store to Dr. W. S. Farrington, who has left it in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding. The latter live in a part of the building and take charge of the store. They and their four children were sleeping when the fire broke out. They escaped from the burning building but were unable to save their household goods. They had no insurance, but Mr. McCone is protected slightly. The cause of the fire is unknown and the store, house, and shed were completely destroyed.

TWO MORE PLEAD GUILTY TO FRAUD

Milwaukee—Samuel L. Chapman, vice president and treasurer of the Union Food Stores Co., and Max Weisberg, a stock salesman for the same company, pleaded guilty to conspiracy to use the mails to defraud in federal court here Tuesday.

Chapman and Weisberg told the prosecution Tuesday morning that they desired to "make a statement to the court" and when the morning session began, both changed their plea from not guilty to guilty. Chapman's attorney said his client had changed his plea against his advice.

This leaves 12 of the original 27 defendants on trial. Of the other 15, one has pleaded guilty, the case of one has been nolle, one is in the Milwaukee jail, one is in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas., and the other two never have been arrested.

ASK DRIVE WORKERS TO GET IN REPORTS

Salvation Army Campaigners Have Reported $2,300 Toward $4,000 Goal

With only a small part of the campaign organization reporting, subscriptions in the Salvation Army campaign reached the $2,300 mark on Monday. That amount has been deposited with Matt Schuh, treasurer of the campaign.

Because a large number of workers have not reported it has been impossible to get a final checkup on the drive. Campaign leaders are urging the industrial chairman and other workers to report to Mr. Schuh as rapidly as possible.

There is a possibility that when all the reports are in Appleton will have reached the goal of $4,000 set for the campaign.

MADISON POLICE SEEK TRUCK DRIVER AS HEIR

By Associated Press
Madison—Madison police Tuesday began a search for Howard Huston, truck driver, who formerly lived here and is said to have lived in Racine during the past year. Huston is the heir to an estate valued at approximately $50,000 left him by an uncle at Randolph, Neb., according to information received by police. Huston formerly lived at Cottage Grove also.

Tong War Given As Reason For Murders

By Associated Press
Chicago—Renewal of Chinese tong feuds was given by the police as responsible for the killing of one Chinese, the probable fatal wounding of two more and attempts to kill several others here Monday night as well as the fatal shooting at the same time of a Chinese in Milwaukee and the death Saturday of another in Detroit.

Police inquiries into the attacks in the three cities were balked by scores of Chinese, who, when questioned, feigned ignorance of the shootings and denied connection with any tongs. Some insisted the trouble resulted from family feuds and others attributed them to gunmen engaged in blackmailing. A few admitted the attacks might have resulted from membership contests between the On Leong and Hip Sing.

Willie Keelie, 22, part owner of a west side restaurant, was the victim here. He was shot down in his kitchen by Wong Jo Hong, a cook, employed two weeks ago. Wong Tak Go, a laundryman who came to Milwaukee from Chicago a month ago, was killed as he bent over his ironing machine in his Milwaukee shop.

Paul H. Moy, and Max Gomez, laundrymen, were seriously wounded here by two Chinese, who entered their place and began shooting.

Moy denied he was connected with any tong strife.

Three other separate attacks, two on laundries and one on a restaurant, failed because of the poor marksmanship of the assailants who escaped in each case.

The theory of blackmail, advanced by Frank Moy, former "mayor of Chinatown" and erstwhile head of the On Leongs here, was furnished by reports of threatening letters received by wealthy Chinese here and in Milwaukee. In Detroit, the police held a tong war theory and believed that Eng Sam Sney killed there Saturday was a Hip Sing spy and was slain by On Leongs.

Arrests of all Chinese found acting suspiciously was ordered here and in Milwaukee.

Island Riot Is Aimed At Yellow Men

By Associated Press
Manila—Rioting which started here last Saturday after a Chinese merchant killed a Filipino, spread to other provinces Tuesday, while more than 400 Filipinos were in jail here on charges of rioting.

Filipinos in the town of Cabanatuan, Province of Nueva Ecija, Luzon islands, attacked the Chinese. Nine Chinese were beaten by the mob before members of the constabulary were able to rescue them, late reports received here said. The mob looted Chinese stores and destroyed a Chinese owned rice mill. Six Filipinos were arrested.

Governor General Leonard Wood received advice that the Filipinos were informed by a command printed in a Manila newspaper Monday to the effect that 50 Filipinos had been killed by Chinese at Shanghai in revenge for the Chinese riots in Manila. A charge of sedition has been filed against the editor of the newspaper.

BOB RENEWS PLEA FOR SENATE QUIZ

Independent Presidential Candidate, Tours States East of Mississippi

By Associated Press
LaFollette Special, Enroute to Rock Island, Ill., Des Moines, Ia.—As he turned eastward Tuesday with the intention of devoting the remainder of his campaign to stumping in the states east of the Mississippi river, Senator Robert M. LaFollette Independent presidential candidate, renewed his demand for a search inquiry into campaign expenditures.

Declaring that "letters already put into evidence before the senate investigating committee" show that funds had been raised in eastern states to be used in doubtful western territory, Mr. LaFollette declared in a statement that "all these western states have corrupt practice acts, and should it develop that this money is being used in unlawful amounts in those states where the rights of the senators and congressmen to their seats will be questioned in the next congress."

The independent candidate traversed Iowa Tuesday on his way to Rock Island, where he is scheduled to deliver an address Tuesday night.

From Rock Island the Wisconsin senator will go to Florida, Ill. and then will make Michigan again for an address in Grand Rapids before moving on to Syracuse, N. Y., Md., Brooklyn, New York and several other cities in New England and eastern states.

U. S. COURT VERDICT AIDS NINE BADGERS

By Associated Press
Superior—Sam Nicholson and nine other western Wisconsin shermen who benefit by the decision of the United States Supreme court Monday declaring that striking shermen charged with violating a government injunction are entitled to trial by jury, were arrested by federal officers at Hudson, Wis., in August, 1922. The men were employees of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway Co., and were charged with violation of an injunction issued by federal Judge C. Z. Luse of the western district of Wisconsin at Superior, restraining strikers from interfering with peaceful picketing or otherwise activities of the railroad companies.

Nicholson arraigned in court here were denied a trial by jury and were tried by Judge Luse who found them guilty and pronounced sentences varying from fifteen days in jail to three years.

The decision on appeal to the United States Court of Appeals was affirmed. The action of the lower courts is reversed by the decision of the United States Supreme court.

289 MORE PUPILS ATTEND SCHOOLS OF CITY THAN IN '23

Large Increase in Enrollment
Shown in Reports to City
Superintendent

The impression that there has been a halt in the rate of increase of school enrollment in Appleton was corrected Thursday by Miss Carrie E. Morgan, city superintendent of schools.

While the September total enrollment of public schools exclusive of the vocational school showed only a small increase over that reported in September 1923, another month of school activities has brought a great change in the number enrolled. Enrollment has increased from 3,409 to 3,646.

The September gain over the 1923 September enrollment was only 56. But since Sept. 8 that gain has been increased by 181 more pupils, which makes a total gain of 237 over Sept. 10, 1923. The vocational school, which showed a gain of only 32 on Sept. 8, reported a gain of 20 more on Oct. 15, raising the total gain over last year to 52. The gain in all schools over last year is 239.

Following is the enrollment in public schools according to districts:

	Sept. 10, 1923	Sept. 8, 1924	Oct. 15, 1924
High school	1,037	1,050	1,077
First district	544	553	588
Second district	728	740	775
Third district	792	812	876
Fourth district	254	299	309
Ungraded room	14	6	11
Deaf school	10	8	10
Totals	3,409	3,465	3,646

The vocational school enrollment is stated as follows:

	Sept. 10, 1923	Sept. 8, 1924	Oct. 15, 1924
Half-time pupils	91	82	91
Part-time pupils	223	264	265
Apprentices			10
Totals	314	346	366

PAGEANT FEATURES MISSION FESTIVAL

About 400 persons were served at dinner and supper on Sunday by the Women's union of St. John church, as part of the mission festival program. An interesting day was spent by the congregation, and perhaps the most enjoyable part was the pageant which was presented Sunday evening by the Young Peoples league. "Broken China," a missionary pageant of China, and its present need, was given in the church auditorium, and was directed by the Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Weitzel. The evening services at the altar were conducted by the Rev. E. Kollath, Neenah. German services in the morning were conducted by the Rev. Paul Hoepfner, Calumet Harbor. The Rev. P. Prell, Shawano, led the afternoon services, which were conducted in English.

OPPOSE DECISIONS IN SCHOOL DEBATES

Lawrence Starts Movement to Take Competition Out of Debating

Competitive debating among the smaller colleges of the middle west may soon be a thing of the past, according to Professor Merle L. Wright, head of the department of public speaking at Hamline university, president of the Mid-West debate conference.

The suggestion of non-decision debates came from Lawrence college, Appleton. It was warmly supported by Ripon college, another historic Wisconsin school. Besides Hamline, St. Olaf college was represented at the conference.

"Some of the members of the conference seemed to feel that the present competitive system tends to thrust forward men of special ability and highly developed talents who need little if any training in debate, while some of the slower brothers who might profit by specialization in intercollegiate debate, are neglected," said Professor Wright.

APPLETON TEACHER ON STATE PROGRAM

Miss Blanche McCarthy to Give
Address at State Teachers' Meeting

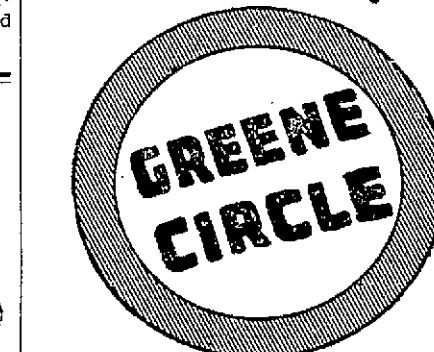

Miss Blanche McCarthy, Appleton high school teacher, and E. C. McInnis, former Lawrence college student and now principal of the Jefferson high school, are on the program of the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Teachers association which will take place in Milwaukee Nov. 6, 7 and 8. Miss McCarthy will speak in the history section meeting and Mr. McInnis is to speak in the section of high school principals.

The program as announced by E. G. Doudina, state secretary, calls for three days of crowded activities for between 6,000 and 8,000 Wisconsin teachers who are expected to attend. Morning sessions will be devoted to general programs attended by all the delegates, while afternoon meetings will be turned over to sections on science, agriculture, biology, commercial subjects, elementary school principals, English, general science, high school principals, history, kindergarten and primary, Latin, mathematics, mental hygiene, music, physical education, physics and chemistry, vocational education, civics, and economics, educational tests, fine arts, geography, home economics, library, moral education and rural schools.

Speakers scheduled for the general sessions are John Callahan, state superintendent; Dr. William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana university; Henry Allen Turner of the Cleveland Art Institute; E. H. Lindley, president of the University of Kansas; Thomas Skellyhill, Australian poet; Ada Ward, English lecturer.

FORD'S INDORSEMENT OF COOLIDGE

The people may not desire to make Henry Ford president, but they will listen to him with respect when he talks of matters political, particularly the fitness of a presidential candidate to give the country wise and helpful service. Mr. Ford had not discussed the campaign since his original indorsement of Mr. Coolidge last December until Saturday, when he made some further observations in the form of an interview. Asked if he had changed his ideas of Mr. Coolidge he replied: "Not a particle. He (Coolidge) comes from stock who do their own thinking. I confidently expect Mr. Coolidge to be elected, because the people like a man who knows how to think. They like to know where they stand and they always know where they stand with Mr. Coolidge." Asked about the relation of the various candidates to Wall street Mr. Ford made this comment:

I don't know Mr. Davis. I do know Mr. Coolidge, however. I know he knows his own mind and that he has the strength to say "No." Wall street can't handle him.

I think Mr. La Follette is honest, and he started out in this campaign with a bang, but his strength is waning. The trouble is that he fails to distinguish between big business and the money interests. Big business and the money interests are to be prospered and happy. The money interests are different; they are Wall street. I think Mr. La Follette is the mouthpiece of Wall street although he doesn't know it, and wouldn't permit himself in that role if he did know it.

As is usual, the Detroit manufacturer has in the above said a great deal in a few words. Whatever one may think of his political views, Mr. Ford is nationally an outstanding industrial benefactor. We do not think there is a greater in America. He has paid the best wages and provided the best social and economic environment for his employees of any large industrial organization, and has at the same time obtained the lowest production cost. No other manufacturer has been able seriously to compete with him in his field, although there have been at all times vast aggregations of capital and brains ready to dislodge him and take away his business if that were possible. It is not conceivable that any socialist or communist state could have given the world in publicly owned production a commodity anything like his in cheapness, quality and service. Millions of farmers and wage-earners have been directly or indirectly benefitted by Mr. Ford's genius, enterprise and sense of justice. He is, therefore, in a position to speak with judgment and authority on what is good for the country economically in its conduct of government. He is qualified to say what policies are conducive to the welfare of organized business and organized labor. He knows the conditions which make for healthy development of industry and the prosperity of the country.

Mr. Ford has nothing in common with Wall street. It is only a few years since Wall street attempted to ruin him and he emerged the victor in one of the largest credit transactions of recent years. Mr. Ford is independent of Wall street; he wishes to keep himself in this position. He wants others engaged in big business to do the same, and the people should be with him in this.

He makes a strong point against the candidacy of Mr. La Follette when he declares that La Follette fails to distinguish between Wall street and big business, between the so-called money power and productive enterprise. The country certainly does not want a president dominated by Wall street. Mr. Ford feels he can rely upon Mr. Coolidge as being subject to no control by Wall street. We think the people have the same feeling. If it is of concern to the people at large to have the government uncontrolled by Wall street, it is equally important to Mr. Ford and vastly more important to his enormous industrial undertakings. When he said that La Follette is the unwitting tool of Wall street, he meant that in his attacks upon big business he is playing into the hands of the money power, which is always out to exploit business and the public by its manipulations, strangle-holds and surgical operations.

We believe the kind of government that economically is good for Ford industries is good for the public at large. This theory involves the assumption that industrial freedom, safe from interference by the money power, is essential to our national progress, prosperity and well-being. There should not be much disagreement about this proposition except by those who wish to introduce socialism. Mr. Ford is not looking for political favors. All he asks is the right to engage in his undertakings unhampered by artificial pressure and demagogic assault. We think that is the great need of all honest, capable business today, and that enjoyed, it cannot help but be of benefit to all the people. Mr. Ford's strong indorsement of Mr. Coolidge is a matter of more than ordinary importance, and represents an analysis of the campaign that deserves the thoughtful attention of every voter.

LONG AND SHORT CAMPAIGNS

Our presidential campaign began practically a year ago. The active part of it will have taken up four full months by election day. In contrast the British campaign takes thirty days. The MacDonald administration decides to "go to the people", and the campaign is in progress at once, and is to be settled next month.

Though our campaign has gone forward since midsummer, we are still in the thick of the fight, with many uncertainties. It is questionable whether the short campaign would harmonize with our political system of the extent and population of the country.

In Great Britain the administration may fall at any moment. Circumstances might arise which would necessitate a new election every few months. We elect the president every four years, and it takes time to cultivate public opinion. We could shorten the campaign and should do so, but it is hard to see how the electioneering itself, could be done in less than three or four months.

WHIRLING AIRPLANE

Radical changes in airplane designs are expected to result from the experiments of Prof. Bjerknes, the Norwegian. Before the meeting of the British Association for Advancement of Science, he demonstrates his new style of airplane. It has whirling cylinders instead of wings. These cylinders, shaped like tin cans, revolve swiftly, but the technical explanation of how they work is complicated.

Man gets his new ideas by studying and adapting things that already exist in nature. When man wanted to fly, he naturally started out with the idea that his airplane must have wings like a bird or insect. The plane you see soaring overhead looks as if it were a huge dragon fly or hawk.

Similarly, the first railroad passenger cars looked like stage coaches. The first autos looked like horse-drawn buggies. The first typewriter keyboard was a copy of a piano's, even to black and white keys in a row.

It's hard to shake off the precedent of the past. Old ideas cling and modify new ideas. It is as if man, venturing into the new, fears totally to discard the old; he clings to the old as a life preserver. But as the new ideas develop, especially new inventions, the old is gradually shaken off. The time may be ripe for the airplane to cease looking like a bird or insect. Who knows?

In Montgomery, Ala., a cat whipped two dogs and bit five people. Never try your home brew on the cat.

Longer courtships are being demanded by educators who evidently don't know what a strain they are.

Lots of fellows stand around and make excuses while lots of other fellows are making a success.

The railroad crossing kills almost as many as double crossing.

If ignorance were bliss all the grouches would be happy.

He who keeps too many irons in the fire gets burned.

WHEN THE CRACKERJACK'S IN BLOOM

The latest echo of the familiar old song of the fishwives "When Johnny Asks for Candy" It's a Sure Sign He's Got Worms" comes from a state that has never had a song written about it, and probably never will now. Miss Lydia J. Roberts, a nutrition worker of the University of Chicago, renders the solo. Miss Roberts does not endorse the sentiment of the older song; she does not list worms among the casualties that can be charged against an excess of sweets, but there is one false note in her rendition, as it sounds to me, which kills any chance the piece might have to gain popularity. "No Candy, Poor Kiddy, Today," would have been an appropriate title for the Roberts effort. Had she meant to sing the praises of crack-crack the title of the piece should have been different.

"Postpone as long as you can the day when the child gets his first piece of candy," advises Miss Roberts. She backs this up with every argument she can muster (it may be found in the July number of Hygiene) against cane sugar glucose. The strongest argument she offers is that the source of the glucose or sugar which the body needs may be the starch in bread, cereals and potatoes or the various forms of sugar in fruits, vegetables and milk. The body can usually manufacture its own kind of sugar (glucose) from any of these as it can from cane sugar.

That strikes me as a mere attempt to find physiological support for a bias or prejudice against cane sugar. Miss Roberts is not alone in her position, however, for a lot of the old fogies in medical practice and even some of the younger baby specialists still harbor a similar prejudice, in the face of science, one might say.

Miss Roberts unblushingly lends dignity to another bit of unscientific prejudice about cane sugar and candy, containing it. She devotes two paragraphs to the vain attempt to explain "why candy makes poor teeth." Of course candy containing nothing but sugar does not supply the material necessary for the building of teeth—calcium phosphate, vitamins, and so on. But neither does any of the other sugars which Miss Roberts would approve of. If our purpose is to provide material for making teeth, candy will never measure up to requirements. But let us not twist and turn that fact into a hint that candy harms the teeth of a child, for any one with any knowledge of the subject of hygiene knows or should know that there is nothing but fancy to warrant the ancient teaching that candy "rotted" the teeth.

"Crackerjack, ice cream cones and such material, eaten indiscriminately and especially between meals are preferable to candy in that they furnish some of the needed food materials that candy does not and thus more nearly take the place of the foods they displace, but on the whole they have the same effect as candy in that they unbalance the diet, spoil the appetite and crowd out more important foods," Miss Roberts avers.

All the "needed food materials" you can get in crackerjack or in ice cream cones but not in candy will never upset your dietary balance seriously.

Miss Roberts' condemnation of candy would have been more telling without the reference to the teeth and the apparent prejudice against the best of all sugars.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Abnormal.
Recently I was refused life insurance for the reason that they found "abnormal blood pressure." I would like to know what kind of an ailment that is. I don't feel sick. Is it dangerous? Do I need medical attention? If so, can you recommend a specialist for the above ailment? (J. B. D.)
Answer:—The blood pressure may be too low or too high, either of which is abnormal. Either would not be an ailment, but a symptom or feature of some underlying ailment or disease or an effect of some error of hygiene. You certainly need medical attention—at least a careful health examination to find out what is wrong. Go to a general physician for that.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Oct. 24, 1899.

The wedding of Frank Culbertson and Clara Belle Shepherd occurred at the home of the bride's parents in the town of Osborn.

Sergt. Merkel of Company G, was in Neenah looking for a suitable place of ground for a rifle range for target practice. He found an ideal place on the Dickson farm about a mile out of Neenah.

Charles Rechner and Mrs. Theresa Metzger were married at St. Joseph church that morning. A reception was held at the home of Charles Loessel. Judge John Goodland and Court Reporter Frank S. Bradford are in Antigo this week holding court.

Helen Jacobs, who lives on Flisk-st, fell from a porch while playing the day previous and fractured her arm in two places.

Photographer Ross, who has had his gallery in the Rosenwald block for many years will soon be located over Lohman's barber shop.

The installation of the Rev. F. T. Rouse as pastor of the Congregational church was to take place that evening. The charge to the pastor was to be given by the Rev. John Faville, D. D., of Peoria.

The Rev. John McCoy was to welcome the new pastor to the fellowship of the city churches.

Steve McCarthy of the Electric laundry was making his rounds with his delivery wagon when his horse took fright and ran away, throwing him out of the wagon. He escaped without injury.

William Selman and Miss Margaret Schneider were married that morning and left for Milwaukee on a wedding trip. They were to return and make their home in the Fifth ward.

Frank Hoh of Bennett was operated upon for appendicitis by Drs. Traasak, Comerford and Rodmund.

TEN YEARS AGO

TO THE WORLD AT LARGE

Who pens a verse that moves men's hearts,
Is blessed, so they say,
And likewise he who sings a song
That drives dull care away.

But blessed more by far is he,
Who business good or ill,
Who writes his name upon a check
And thereby pays his bill.

Now we know why Mayor Haentze of Fond du Lac is such an ardent riparian. Thousands of his green house plants are in danger of being flooded out every spring.

We advise all fathers and mothers who do not wish to have their children acquire the habit of cursing to send them out of town during January. Tax collecting time, you know.

NAIVE SCHEME

The city council refused to make arterial highways of railroads. They might try the scheme suggested in the following letter.

"On several of Memphis' fine boulevards they have a naive scheme to prevent grade crossing accidents. Several hundred feet in front of each crossing a big "dend man" has been built into the road. It is a huge bump about three feet high as if a sewer had just been laid across the road. The bump of course is to warn motorists of the grade crossing ahead. No car that approaches the crossing at a speed of 30 miles an hour can possibly get hit by a train. It is wrecked before it gets there, thus keeping the railroad right of way clear of debris.

L. A. F., the man who owns so many cars during the license application season owns but few cars in Appleton. It is hard to L. A. F. at cars since the police of this town have started to issue auto licenses of their own.

D. B., another member of this staff, claims ownership of more cars than any one man in the city. His initials are on every car that makes you dodge, brother, dodge.

Why not get alienists and psychiatrists to testify in divorce cases? Most men and women probably could have it made clear that they were temporarily insane when they married.

We see by the P-C that the museum in the public library may join a state organization. It could enlarge its art collection by taking off the windshields from cars during election campaigns.

A sharp fight is expected in New Jersey for the senatorial seat. Mr. Brown and Mrs. Edge are the candidates.

Drowning time is over, reckless driving season is almost at a close and all is ready for the "didn't know it was loaded" or "I thought it was a deer" season.

ROLLO.

Messenger At 15 Wins Seat As Broker At 27

Because Howard Morton Johnson loves the stock exchange—as the Prince of Wales loves polo—he has won an $82,000 seat on the exchange.

Simultaneously he becomes one of the youngest self-made men on Manhattan island. He is only 27. But he is a veteran of the street, with 12 years' service behind him.

His firm, Struthers & Hiscoc, has taken him into full partnership. Young Johnson is the third of the firm's employees who has won a seat and a partnership.

Howard Johnson says he owes his success to the fact that he did not loiter for a college education. He broke into the exchange through the messenger's portal—he was a "runner" at 15.

"It was all luck and Mr. Struthers," he explained. "I just worked. I might have made the mistake of going to college, but Mr. Struthers advised me against it."

The stock exchange isn't the only thing Howard Johnson loves. Like the hero of a movie, he is soon to be married. He doesn't play golf or tennis much, but likes swimming and spends much of his recreation time on the nearby beaches.

The man behind Howard Johnson is William Wood Struthers. Mr. Struthers said young Johnson's winning a seat and a partnership is the reward for hard work, faithful service to the firm, on top of excellent qualifications for his job, which consists of filling telephone orders from customers on the floor of the exchange.

"Nimble wits and a good, strong voice," outlined Struthers, "are among the foremost essentials for a broker operating on the floor. He must be well equipped physically. He must be aggressive."

Find That Shark Has Good Points

(From The Acto Fisheries News)
After all, the shark is a useful fish. Statements to the effect that some sharks are man-eaters have been denied and other statements to the effect that they are useless for any purpose, once denied, are now admitted to be true. The more science studies the shark the more attractive it grows, and its attraction to certain industries and to certain stomachs is well established.

The Chinese know that shark fin soup is excellent. The fins are boiled in making the soup and treated until they take on the appearance of fan-like flakes and filaments of pure gelatin.

The eyes of the shark, after they have been boiled, lose their outer covering, and the residue becomes quite hard and has a sort of shifting light in its texture. These are mounted on pins or other forms of jewelry and present an unusual appearance. A considerable amount of cod liver oil is really shark oil, and is just as good for it possesses medicinal properties of the same character.

A valuable part of the man-eater is the skin. The thin outer skin is removed by a secret process and when dried it has a remarkable hardness and is used by cabinet makers for "rivving" polish to hard woods, ivory and so on.

The inner skin is tanned so carefully that it eventually yields a waterproof, noncracking leather. Different parts of the skin give different shades of color and the tanning process succeeds in preserving these dark greens and browns so that shoes, traveling bags, purses, belts and similar articles made of the skin have quite a handsome appearance.

Unusual People

SURVIVOR OF THE "LIGHT BRIGADE"

Ellis Cutting, 87, only survivor of the famous Light Brigade, immortalized by their charge at Balaklava on Oct. 25, 1854, and kept in memory by the verses of Lord Tennyson has acquired a rich brogue by living at Cedar Rapids, Ia., with his Irish wife. He has turned to paths of peace.

Cutting ran away from home when 17 to join the British troops in India. He claims the charge of the "Six Hundred" was the only fun he got out of the whole Crimean affair.

"I can't figure out why they make so much ado about the simple carrying out of an order; an order's an order, isn't it?" he asks.

due to opposition of the British War Ministry, who considers it a danger to Great Britain in case of hostilities.

Q. Please give the names of some of the signers of the Magna Carta?
J. L.

A. The names of some of the barons and bishops who forced King John to the signing of the Magna Carta, are Stephen Langston, Archbishop of Canterbury, Henry, Archbishop of Dublin; William of London, Peter of Winchester, Joceline of Bath and Glatonburg; Hugh of Lincoln, William, Earl of Pembroke; William, Earl of Salisbury; William, Earl of Arundel, Allen de Galloway, Constable of Scotland, Warrin Fitzgerald.

Q. How much is North Carolina spending for education?
J. N.

A. This year, the expenditures for educational purposes will amount to approximately $25,000,000.

Q. Does the Forest Service allow the cutting of trees in the National Forests?
R. K.

A. Mature, decadent and diseased trees are sold and cut, but always in such way as to insure a second crop and continuous production of timber from the areas involved.

Q. At banquets in ancient Egyptian times, were women permitted to sit with men?
E. I. B.

A. Men and women sat side by side at banquets and at other entertainments as well. Cushioned chairs were used.

Q. What is the origin of the name "Speckle" as applied to the first motor-car to sail around the world?
H. T. D.

A. Joanne Bonchet Gowen, the only woman aboard the motor-boat on its famous journey, says that the name was derived from a nickname which Albert V. Gowen had at Harvard. Mr. Gowen was the owner of the boat.

Q. What is meant by "Deus ex Machina"?
D. K. W.

A. It literally means the "god from a machine." The ancient Greeks were accustomed to employ a god or other supernatural character at the end of a tragedy to solve the situation that had been developed. The god was brought on the stage by machinery, hence the phrase.

Q. What signature does a woman use in signing a hotel register?
J. L. L.

The Door Bell Knows!

"I've just discovered the reason why we had more visitors last winter than ever before. One day Mrs. Jones said, 'My, this is a nice and cozy house! How do you keep things so comfortable?' And Dad said, 'It's the new celebrated Thatcher Meteor Warm Air Furnace in the cellar. It makes all the difference in the world. Sorry I did not put one in years ago.' Take it from me, the door bell is kept ringing in a Thatcher heated home — callers like to come."

The large combustion chamber of the Meteor insures perfect combustion of coal gases. Write for illustrated booklet "Helpful Hints on Heating."

KAUKAUNA SUNDAY

Pre-game Dope Gives Milwaukee Squad Slight Edge Over State Champs

Kaukauna—The American legion football team rested Sunday from its labor but a goodly number of the boys wandered over to Manitowoc to see the Milwaukee Laphams beat the Shipyard favorites, 14 to 0. The Laphams play here next Sunday and according to comparative scores, should beat Kaukauna by at least one touchdown. But local coaches are planning to show that comparative scores and pre-game dope means little.

Chief Coach Ashe has had the boys in hand during the last week and the chief as promised to bring forth a surprise next Sunday. He says the squad has improved about 35 per cent since last week, which is considered quite a gain for a team which claims the state amateur championship. It is hinted a few newcomers will be on the field for Sunday's fracas.

In three weeks the legionnaires will pack their duds and take a trip to Manitowoc where they will meet their bitter foes in a return battle. The Electric City defeated Manitowoc 7 to 0 this season but the result of the encounter in the Shipyard city is doubtful.

MENTORS HOSTESSES
AT CHICKEN DINNER

Members of Board of Education Entertained at Dinner and Program

Kaukauna—Teachers of Kaukauna public schools entertained members of the board of education and their wives at a chicken dinner at 5:30 Monday evening in the domestic science rooms of the new high school. A. G. Meating, county superintendent, and Mayor C. E. Raught also were guests. During the program at the table Violet Edman sang several vocal selections. Instrumental selections and solos were rendered by Edward Gambacher and Harold Derus and Miss Helen Weisenbach. Miss Flora Heise, music supervisor, also played a violin solo. Mr. Raught acted as toastmaster. A toast of welcome to the school board was given by Olin G. Dryer, high school principal and the response was given by L. F. Nelson. Mr. Meating, H. T. Runte, president of the board, Superintendent J. F. Cavanaugh and James McGrath gave short talks.

Following the after dinner speeches the party continued upstairs where buncos was played. Miss Helen Hall captured first prize and Lester G. Brenzel of the school board, was given the consolation prize.

CITY WILL VOTE ON BRIDGE BOND ISSUE
AGAIN ON NOV. 4

Ruling of Attorney-General Will Not Stop Progress on Bridge Work

Kaukauna—Due to the fact that there were a few irregularities in the proceedings pursuant to the special election held a few weeks ago on the question of bonding the city for $100,000 for the construction of the new bridges, another election is necessary. The mayor secured a hearing with the state attorney general a week ago to determine whether the proceedings of the first election were invalid because official notice had been printed in the paper only once instead of twice.

It seems the attorney general questioned a few other technical kinks and turns necessary during such proceedings and ruled that another election should be held. The question will again be voted upon by the voters of Kaukauna on general election day, Tuesday Nov. 4.

The ruling of the state officer does not materially affect progress on the work. Anticipating such a set back, the council advertised for bids to be opened at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, Nov. 18, giving the city days plenty of time to dispose of the election in due and regular form.

According to Joseph LeFevre, city attorney, a copy of the long and cumbersome resolution ordering the bond issue, as passed by the council, must be part of the ballot. This was not done for the special election.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Mrs. G. A. Yale, Mrs. M. Burkhardt and Mrs. James Conway entertained at a party at 615 Desnoy street Monday afternoon for Mrs. Ruth Griswold who leaves next week for Los Angeles, Calif., to live. Twelve ladies were present.

A group of local people autored to Red Banks Sunday for a picnic outing and hunting expedition. The men bagged a number of ducks. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Weisenbach, Mrs. Elizabeth Behler, John Behler, Mr. and Mrs. Homer White.

CREAMS AND WEINERS
IN HOT PIN CONTEST

Kaukauna—Pendergast's Creams and Bayoregon's Weiners engaged in a hot contest in an opening game of the city business men's bowling league Monday evening on Hylgenberg alleys. The Creams captured the series with a total of 2,393 pins as compared with a total of 2,355 for the Weiners. In the opening fray the butchers piled up a lead of 13 pins but in the second their lead dwindled to only five pins and after the last game they were 33 pins in the rear. The score:

AT "PEP" MEETING

High School Eleven Hopes to Repeat DePere Outcome With Kaukauna Saturday

New London—Players who were victors in the football game with DePere Saturday when the red and white triumphed with a 20 to 14 score gave talks at a "pep" meeting during the regular assembly period at the high school at 11:45 Monday morning.

Capt. Ramsay was the first to talk, and he was followed by Radke, famous 90-yard runner and left half-back of the team, and Elmer Lowell, who played as quarterback Saturday. They each gave a brief discussion of the game, and all expressed their intention to win from Kaukauna on Saturday, Oct. 25. Coach Koten gave a short talk, in which he stated that he could not understand why the local boys were accustomed to go into a game and win one half and then play a poor game during the other.

ATHLETICS BRING PROFIT TO SCHOOL

Balance of $300 Is Left in High School Association's Treasury

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The Athletic association in New London high school is a paying proposition as was the case last year. On Sept. 1, 1924, when school reopened for the year the association had a cash balance on hand of $121.41. With the sale of season tickets, new memberships, proceeds from the football games, and minus all running expenses, the treasury stands on Oct. 21, at $341.71. There are a few small bills to be deducted, and this will leave the Athletic association with $300 at the end of the week.

This is the association's second year of existence in the high school.

BUSINESSMEN HEAR ADDRESS BY HEAD OF MANUFACTURERS

Carl Johnson Declares Manufacturers and Farmers Dependent on Each Other

Neenah—Carl Johnson of Madison, president of Wisconsin Manufacturers association, was the speaker at the noon luncheon of Neenah business men Monday noon. He spoke on Wisconsin in general, calling attention to the relationship between industry and agriculture in the sense that while they are important in their individual relationships, both are dependent upon each other.

In their efforts to get votes he said politicians were heartless and faithless as to real welfare of the state in the way of protecting farmers and manufacturers. He discussed taxation and said all the manufacturers asked is a square deal. Many of them are being taxed out of the state, he said.

C. F. Hedges, superintendent of schools, was selected as the chairman for the coming week. It will devolve upon him to secure the speaker for the next weekly luncheon.

Twin City Personals

Neenah—Mrs. E. E. Lampert was called to Minneapolis Sunday night by the illness of her mother, Mrs. Evan Vincent.

Among the Neenah people who attended the Wisconsin-Minnesota game at Madison Saturday were Melvin Anspach, Ambrose Owens and Albert Cramer.

Mrs. George Virmond is visiting her sister, Mrs. August Doherty, at C. R. Budd's and family have returned from a week's visit at Green Bay.

Miss Marcelle Schwieger of Madison is the guest of Miss Louise Stommel.

August Hodgeberg was at Madison Tuesday, where he took the state pharmaceutical examination.

Neenah—Vincent Tracy, H. B. Petrie and Harry Kramer, who were guests of former Mayor T. E. McGowan while visiting in Fox river valley, have returned to their homes in Chicago. While here they visited the new Butte des Morts golf links.

VAGRANTS SENT TO JAIL FOR TEN DAYS

Neenah—William Hannan and Albert Munneken, vagrants, who were taken in charge by the police department Monday after the former had stolen a suitcase at one of the places he called, were fined $5 and costs when arraigned before Judge Chapman and when unable to pay up were sentenced to the county jail at Oshkosh for ten days. Hannan claimed he was a resident of Appleton until the death of his mother 30 years ago.

NOTED TENOR HEARD BY LARGE AUDIENCE

Neenah—The Neenah-Menasha artist course was opened by Theodore Karle, tenor, Monday evening at Neenah theater. A large audience made up of people from the entire Fox river valley greeted the gifted singer, who was repeatedly cheered. The recital was generally conceded one of the best heard here for some time.

Other numbers on the course are: Nov. 2, "L'Ombré," comic light opera; Dec. 2, Sylvia Lent, violinist; May 28, Frieda Hempel, soprano.

Neenah Social Activities

Neenah—The senior class of Kimberly high school cleared $20 on the dance in the gymnasium Saturday which they gave for the benefit of the Athletic association. There was a large attendance.

Neenah—The E. B. B. club composed of 30 young ladies gave their first dance of the season at the Elks' hall Monday evening under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. W. Miner. More than 100 couples were present and music was furnished by the Mellorimba orchestra.

Neenah—A short detour on highway 15 has been made necessary by the digging of a sewer on Harrison-st which is to extend to the site of the proposed new roundhouse of the Soo line. Automobile drivers instead of taking the route designated, have repeatedly removed the barricades and it kept Chief of Police C. H. Watts and Officer Viggo Sorenson busy from 8:45 to 11:15 Saturday evening replacing them. One of the drivers got into the trench damaging a wheel, running board and fender on his car.

At Merrill corners, one end of the detour, a Haynes car was damaged by being hit by an Essex car. The Haynes car had stopped at the detour and the other car approached it at the rate of 40 miles an hour. The driver applied his brakes so firmly that it caused the car to face about and the rear end hit the other car. No one was injured.

KAUKAUNA GAME GIVES GRIDDERS MORE "PEP"

Neenah—The 0 to 0 score with Kaukauna Saturday has given the football players of Kimberly high school less confidence in winning the remainder of the games of their schedule. COUNCIL DEMANDS POLICE ENFORCE LAW ON PARKING

Busses Stand in Wrong Place, Mayor Told—Award Sewer Contract

Neenah—At the midmonthly meeting of the common council Saturday evening, Mayor George E. Sando was instructed to notify the police department to enforce the ordinance relating to the parking of motorbuses on the west side of National Manufacturers bank building instead of along the west side of Anspach department store building, where they have been parking for some time and where the congestion of traffic is greater.

The council approved the rules and regulations of the water department providing meters for fire sprinkler service in factories and mills. Applications for non-intoxicating liquor licenses were made by Al Hanson and Schultz Bros., but no action was taken.

BLOW MILL WHISTLES TO REMIND PEOPLE TO VOTE

Appleton voters will have plenty of reminders on Nov. 4 that it is election day and that it is everyone's duty to vote. Arrangements have been made to have the city's mill whistles blow for one minute at 6 o'clock, when the polls open, and at every hour thereafter until 8 o'clock, at night when the polls close. It is believed this constant repetition of mill whistles will remind Appleton people that the polls are open and waiting for them.

National Home Beautiful Week

NO MATTER how meager the furnishings, how small the expenditures, there is no home more beautiful than your own. That is, provided you show proper taste in the selection and fitting of the many articles that go to make up the Home Beautiful. Of course, one can't expect the ordinary laymen to be acquainted with every piece of furniture which might beautify his home or the kind of drapes that would make a dreary room look considerably brighter. That is the purpose of National Home Beautiful Week which takes place the week of October 20-25. During this event each merchant listed on this page is turning his Store into a bureau of information. He will gladly give you those little hunches which go a long ways towards making a simple home a HOME BEAUTIFUL.

RAYMOND ROBINS ARRIVES HERE FOR ADDRESS TONIGHT

Noted Student of Politics Will Urge Election of Coolidge

Raymond Robins, internationally known economist and student of politics, who is to speak Tuesday evening in Lawrence Memorial chapel under the auspices of Appleton Coolidge-Daves club, arrived in Appleton this afternoon and will remain until Wednesday morning. He came here from Ohio where he spent several days speaking for the Republican Presidential ticket.

Mr. Robins was one of the leaders in Theodore Roosevelt's Progressive party and he is one of the Progressive leaders who have repudiated La Follette's progressivism as not representative of the ideals of the Rooseveltian party. His address will begin at 8 o'clock.

Few men in public life have had a closer contact with the problems of the common man than has Mr. Robins. He began his career as a newsboy, then successively became a store cash boy, a farmer boy, a clerk in a law office, a Klondike gold miner and religious worker in Alaska, a civic worker in Chicago's settlements, investigator of unemployment and superintendent of the Chicago municipal lodging house, a member of the Chicago board of education and Chicago charter convention, industrial expert and strike arbitrator, social service expert for the Men and Religious Forward Movement, candidate of the real Progressive party for United States senator from Illinois and permanent chairman of the Progressive national convention of 1912.

During the war Col. Robins was a lieutenant colonel and was the commissioner commanding the American Red Cross in Russia. His service in Russia, climaxed by his intense effort to delay the Brest-Litovsk treaty, won him world-wide recognition.

DISPLAYS TEACH TEXAS PUPILS OF PAPERMAKING

Displays made up by Appleton Chamber of Commerce and relating largely to the papermaking industry created quite a little notice at a county fair at Seagraves, Texas, and gave Appleton considerable favorable advertising. The exhibits were made up here at the request of Mrs. Lena Platt, teacher of the Leon school at Seagraves. She used them to teach her pupils about the industries here and placed them on display when the fair opened. Samples of paper, pulp, wire cloth and other articles were sent. They are used in a school where there is no manufacturing whatever in a large area, according to a letter written to the chamber.

Can't Turn Around On Busy Corners

(This is the third of a series of articles on the city's new traffic ordinance. It tells of important changes in rules and should be read by everybody, car driver and pedestrian alike.)

Prohibition of left turns and "U" turns on College-ave are the regulations within the city's new traffic ordinance which are perhaps the most radical of the changes made by the officials, and those on which few motorists seem to be informed. It is important, however, that every autoist learn these requirements at once because both accidents and arrests otherwise may be the consequence.

This is what the ordinance says: "Vehicles shall not make a 180-degree or 'U' turn on College-ave between Walnut and Drew-sts. both inclusive, and no 'left turns' shall be made at such intersections where automatic signals are now or shall hereafter be installed."

Under these rules any autoist driving on College-ave who turns around at Oneida, Appleton, Superior, Walnut, Morrison, Durkee or Drew-sts. violates the law. He either must go further up or down the street to turn around or must drive around the block.

This also means that no driver going east on College-ave may turn north at Oneida-st and no driver going west may turn south at that intersection. They must choose some other street to make their left turn or go around a block and cross the street horizontally. If traffic signal lights are placed at Appleton-st or other points, left turns also will be prohibited there.

These measures may cause inconvenience to some, but they are designed to eliminate considerable of the confusion and tying up of traffic now occasioned by some car trying to break through the streams of cars. Practices which have put pedestrians in danger also are done away with in this way.

SOUSA BAND SALE OPENS ON OCT. 31

Advance Interest Indicates Capacity Audiences at Two Programs

Although the seat sale for the concert by Philip Sousa's band here on Nov. 7 does not begin until Oct. 31, numerous inquiries for tickets are being received. It was announced, however, that tickets will not be placed on sale until that date. Interest that is being shown now indicates capacity audiences for the afternoon and evening programs.

Sousa is perhaps the only conductor in the world who conducts his concerts from beginning to end. The majority of musical directors have an assistant who takes charge of the musical organization at least for the soloists, and every conductor save Sousa has a chair placed at his music stand into which he drops for a few seconds between numbers. Sousa does not leave his platform, except during the intermission, from the beginning of a concert to its end.

Perhaps one of the reasons for Sousa's success has been that Sousa's band always is under his immediate direction. There is no person with the title of assistant director. There is no person with whom he divides responsibility for the great organization once it is on the stage. Several years ago, it was pointed out that Sousa might increase his earning powers by organizing several bands, all bearing the Sousa name, and it was argued that a band of Sousa-trained musicians would be an organization of which even Sousa might be proud. But the famous bandmaster declined. For thirty-seven years he has kept his faith with the American people and there has been no Sousa's band without Sousa and no concert without the famous bandmaster conducting every number on the program.

3,148 BOOKS ADDED TO RURAL LIBRARIES

Long winter evenings on the farm will be made more enjoyable for children who attend the 116 rural schools in Outagamie-co by the addition of 3,148 books to the school libraries this fall. Under the state reading law school children are compelled to read five books outside their regular course each year and this is the reason that libraries are installed in all country schools.

This year the county added 3,148 books to the library, costing $2,531. The distribution of books to the various schools is based upon the census of the town, 20 cents being allowed for each child. Teachers may request certain volumes, but the county superintendent orders all books.

The country school libraries, like those of the city schools, contain fiction and non-fiction books. They include books of reference, government, history, action, geography, biography, and scientific literature.

ROT WILL KEEP SPUD MARKET LOW FOR WHILE

Buyers Must Gamble on Potatoes That Have Not Been Tested by Storage

Special to Post-Crescent
(By Special Correspondent)
Waupaca.—Until the potato crop from this section can be marketed free from the tubers affected by dry rot there will be perhaps little change in the price situation here. Growers are receiving $5 to 40 cents a hundred pounds, which is 30 cents less than a year ago and gives them approximately 20 cents a bushel.

The potato situation here is of a serious and complex nature and buyers are unable to forecast the future of market conditions. The situation is unlike that of any for many years.

Growers and buyers who were consulted declare that at the time the 1924 crop was planted there was a general desire to accomplish an early sowing, due to the fact that in the fall of 1923 an early frost in September killed all vegetation growth in Waupaca and surrounding counties. The yield of potatoes was curtailed nearly 50 per cent on this account.

WEATHER WAS CONTRARY

Weather conditions stood in the way of these intentions and planting was late again. The growing season was favorable to majority of the field, although wet weather drowned out many acres. On the other hand, the rains were beneficial to the crops on light, high land. A serious turn of the weather occurred late in the season, with unusually heavy rains. This caused the blight which in turn induces dry rot.

This disease starts directly under the skin of the potato and spreads throughout the entire tuber of the vegetable. Dry rot, in its early stages, can be detected by the eye. It will develop in a few days after potatoes have been in storage, however, and most of the affected stock then can be sorted out.

The situation confronting the farmers and buyers is that they are unable to detect unsound potatoes until the crop is fully harvested and has undergone the process of developing all affected stock the marketing is a gamble to the producers and buyers alike. Prices therefore are affected to such an extent that the producer is forced to defer his sales until later or accept whatever is offered.

ROT IN ALL SACKS

An experiment was conducted by one Waupaca dealer to determine what he might expect from the potatoes he bought. Twenty loads of potatoes he received were assorted carefully by hand and all potatoes affected by dry rot were thrown out. The buyer took a sackful from each load and kept these for three days. The sacks then were emptied and everyone of them contained some potatoes with dry rot although none was perceptible at the time they were sacked. Only a few were found in some bags and the others were rotted to the extent of about 50 per cent.

This explains readily why prices in central Wisconsin are as at present. Wisconsin seems to be the only state so affected however. Until farmers are able to market their crop free from dry rot it is readily seen that price conditions cannot improve.

W. H. Worley, local representative of the United States department of agriculture and cooperating with the Wisconsin department of markets, says price quotations for Friday, Oct. 1, cash to growers at Waupaca were 35 to 40 cents a hundred pounds, compared with 65 to 75 cents the same date last year. The Chicago market for carload lots this year was 75 to 80 cents on the same date and last year was $1 and $1.15.

ESTIMATE BIG CROP

The number of cars shipped to date this year for the United States is 1,444 as compared with 1,531 last year, according to Mr. Morris, Wisconsin shipped 72 cars on Oct. 17 this year and 89 on the same day a year ago. Market comment that day at Waupaca was "Hauling moderate demand and trading very slow and market weak." The Chicago market comment was "Supplies heavy early on demand, trading limited and market steady for good stock."

Market News Service also gave out in daily bulletin No. 20 issued Oct. 10 the bureau of crop estimates report of the probable production of white potatoes for the entire United States. This was placed at 42,350,000 bushels, as based on conditions Oct. 1. This figure is 10,147,000 bushels higher than the estimate of Sept. 1 and 11,118,000 bushels more than the estimate of 41,239,000 bushels for the season of 1923. The Wisconsin estimate for this year is placed at 2,130,000 bushels compared with 26,112,000 bushels in 1923 and 40,972,000 bushels in 1922.

Final estimate of the entire United States this year of 11,116,000 bushels more than that of 1923 may be more than offset by dry rot in Wisconsin according to some opinions. It is believed that if Wisconsin potatoes are marketed later with no discrimination because of the fact that the dry rot will have been almost entirely removed, the situation of 1923 is summing that consumption will be the same.

Cows Fed On Treated Sawdust Increase Milk Yield And Show Gains In Weight

Portland, Ore.—Sawdust is now being used successfully as a stock food.

Recent experiments in laboratory and field have resulted in satisfactory conclusion with regard to the feeding of hydrolized or dressed sawdust.

Feed in amounts up to 20 per cent of the total of all foods. Horses and cattle have shown weight gains from 25 to 50 pounds in one month. The milk volume from cows has been increased an average of 12 per cent.

The sawdust—spruce, fir, larch, birch or hemlock may be used—is first digested in a retort which breaks down the tough tissues of the wood and forms about 25 per cent of sugar to which is added a small quantity of molasses to make the mixture more palatable.

Several plans on the Pacific coast and a Great Lakes region are installing apparatus for manufacturing this cheap stock food. Sawdust is usually readily obtainable as mill waste or may be made by dedicating mill refuse at the hydrolizing plant.

The digestibility of this edible sawdust is from 55 to 97 per cent. Cattle eat it readily if it is mixed with other foods, but they do not take to it by itself.

Horses reap coats, hogs and cows thrive on hydrolized sawdust and before many years it is expected this will form an important part of the diet of these animals on account of cheapness and because of its weight producing and in the case of cows, milk-increasing advantages.

What Your Neighbor Is Doing

(This column relates interesting things that are going on at the farms in this vicinity. Every farmer is invited to contribute items about his crops, herds, poultry or his farm itself. Mail or telephone them to "Farm Editor.")

Deer Creek.—Andrew Lendved, raised 12 acres of corn this season which proved as good as the average in his vicinity. He did not have enough to fill his silo 12 by 30 feet in size, as the silage came only to a height of 16 feet. With the usual crop of a normal year, Mr. Lendved says he fills the same silo from the yield on four and one-half acres. On account of a shortage of corn and other feed, Mr. Lendved and other farmers will be compelled to sell some of their cattle. Mr. Lendved has lived in Deer Creek 50 years and he declares he has never seen corn as light as this year.

Deer Creek.—The Lily cheese factory is now turning out certified cheese. Twenty-eight patrons with a total of 500 cows are supplying this factory with milk. The cows were tested for tuberculosis last summer and only 11 reactors were discovered in the whole number. Ten of the reactors belonged to one herd and one to another according to a statement of Andrew Lendved. As a result of the cleaning up, Mr. Lendved expects that the factory will soon be getting top prices for cheese.

Oneida.—A community fair under auspices of Oneida Methodist church was held in the Epworth hall on Saturday. Farm products were exhibited and J. N. Cavanaugh, county agent, Brown-co acted as judge. A baseball game between home teams was played in the afternoon. Mike Marie, Brown county nurse, Outagamie co., talked to the mothers on the care of children and foods for children, and to the girls on the care of the body and first aid. A chicken dinner and supper were served by the women of the church.

Stephensville.—Farmers here are discussing potatoes. This is a disagreeable task this year because of the discovery that about half the crop is affected by dry rot and the prices are down to a few cents a bushel. The recent heavy rains caused the rot to become prevalent and some of the farmers have plowed their crop under, declaring it did not pay to dig potatoes at present prices with the corresponding high cost of labor.

Center Valley.—To raise one year crop in a field and use it is invariably considered first class farming in this latitude. But A. W. M. Miller, a test this season. Mr. Miller, a first crop raised 20 bushels to the acre of seed corn. On July 17, he seeded the same field to pea again. The second crop is nearly ripe and is a terrific success. First 11 bushels to the acre.

Shiocton.—Henry Joann's corn, cabbage and pickles were almost completely drowned out this summer. A 15-acre field of cabbage will probably yield not more than 15 tons. Twenty-one acres of corn were used to fill 15 feet of a silo, 12 by 36 feet. Last year seven acres filled the silo. His income from a three-quarter acre patch of pickles was $20.

BLACKBIRDS ARE STEALING GRAINS

By W. F. WINSEY
In the vicinity of lakes and rivers in Waupaca and Outagamie counties myriads of blackbirds have destroyed at least a third of the corn and small grain. When the corn was in the milk the birds with the skill and greed of hogs ripped husks from the ears and uniformly removed the upper third of the kernels. A number of farmers made prolonged attempts to check the depredations of the birds with shotguns. But when the birds were flushed in one part of the field, they moved only a short distance in the same field.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry
For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs. Into a pint bottle put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it. You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. NYHUS SEES UPTURN IN FARM SITUATION

Cross Value of Crops Will Be Higher Than Year Ago In His Opinion

Madison.—Agriculture has traveled a long lane of distress but the upturn in wheat and hogs plus well sustained cotton prices, has brought a turn in the road, declares a statement on present agricultural conditions by Paul O. Nyhus, federal-state crop statistician for Wisconsin.

"As things stand, it looks as though most of the major crops will have a higher gross value than last year," Nyhus states. "This has been widely heralded, numerous spokesmen having been busily counting the farmers' blessings ever since corn was knee high."

"The wheat situation has changed greatly since last fall when growers were wondering where they could borrow enough money to pay their taxes. The countrywide yield will apparently run over 15 bushels per acre, the best in six years. The rise in wheat prices may be attributed to a short Canadian crop as much as any one factor. "The other major money crops also give good promise. Potatoes and fruit are on the way to good crops and apparently fairly good prices. Cotton looks like the largest crop with the best income in five years. The feed outlook is good as to roughage and small grains. There is plenty of hay, and oats are turning out a splendid yield practically everywhere. Corn is not so promising. "All in all, agriculture is coming through in decidedly the best shape since 1920. The improvement is not without its causes. There is a double-barreled lesson for producers in the situation—that prices respond when supply comes down to the level of demand, and that this season's rise in wheat and corn prices is a good deal due to a freak of the weather."

Grid Fans Marvel As Lawrence Showing At Iowa City Sinks In

Remarkable Game Played by Blues Draws Tribute Not Only from Home Boosters but Even from Hostiles

As the full extent of the heroic fight of Lawrence College football team against Iowa State last Saturday is being revealed, followers of the sport here are marvelling more and more at the fine machine which has been turned out by Coach Mark Catlin in a few short weeks. Appreciation is not limited to the home folks, however. Before the Blue team left the Iowa university city, dozens of Iowa men had complimented Catlin on their splendid showing and expressed surprise that so powerful a team could be built up in so relatively small a city.

Although Eddie Kotal held the spotlight in a few sensational plays he did not outshine the remainder of the team. Pete Brlese was a terror with the ball and once almost got away for a touchdown. He had eluded four of five tacklers in the line of scrimmage and there was but one man between him and the goal posts. The veteran Iowa man coming from in front and pursued by a pack of Iowans from the rear cornered Brlese and he was downed after a substantial gain. At bit of hard luck also prevented a touchdown. Iowa fumbled close to the Lawrence line and Kotal, breaking through the line, scooped up the ball on the dead run. There wasn't a man between him and the Iowa goal posts but he was going so fast when he picked up the ball that he lost his balance and fell, spoiling a splendid chance to run away from the Big Ten squad.

COOKE IS SENSATION
One of the sensations of the game was Ozzy Cooke. This long slender fellow who thus far this season played ordinary ball, found himself and became a star. He picked passes out of the air with remarkable skill, played a whiz of a game on the defense and was responsible for several winning gains. Another wizard in the line was Hipke, a newcomer. Hipke hadn't played much of any football up to ten days ago but he acted like a veteran at Iowa City. Hipke doesn't know much as yet about the science of tackling but he does know that one of the cardinal tenets is "hit 'em hard" and he can and did do that to perfection. Almost every time Hipke hit an Iowan it was a signal for time out.

The whole team played that kind of a game and Iowa was taking out time with alarming frequency. Jake Stoll was the only Lawrence man to be really injured but at least a half dozen Hawkeyes had to be helped from the field, so vicious was the attack of the Methodists. Stoll showed that he has a heart of iron when he was injured. Jake was near exhaustion when he suffered a wrenched knee but he tried to get back into the game. Catlin ordered his mates to carry him off the field, but Stoll, remembering his coach's instructions not to take off time except under the most trying conditions, pushed his teammates away and hobbled to the bench unaided. He was given a mighty cheer from the 10,000 Hawkeyes in the stands.

BOTH TEAMS PENALIZED
Both teams suffered penalties, Iowa more than Lawrence. The Hawkeyes, disgusted toward the end of the game because of their inability to solve the Lawrence attack, and to make gains through the line line, resorted to a few tricks which brought severe penalties, but on the whole the game was cleanly played. Lawrence gained many more yards than Iowa, totaling 204 during the game while Iowa pined up 145. But for a lucky break close to the start of the game Iowa would not have scored a touchdown.

Coach Catlin had his men out Monday evening but was easy with them. The boys were stiff and sore and Monday night's work was in the nature of a limbering-up exercise. He will resume actual training Tuesday afternoon for the battle at Ripon next Saturday. Ripon scouted the Blue of game, getting a line on the Blue offense, and it is possible that Catlin will teach his squad a new style of attack for the special benefit of the Red team.

OLYMPIC BOWLERS PLAN TO BUILD WHEEL, OCT. 23

Another pinwheeling league will join the line already in action here in the near future when the Olympic bowlers organize their wheel. Members are to meet Thursday, Oct. 23, for this purpose and probably the league will start bowling next week. On Tuesday night the Olympic bowlers will meet the strong Kimbly Blue team. Both teams are bowling in mid-season form and a hard fight is in prospect.

WISCONSIN HOPES BRIGHTEN AFTER GOPHER CONTEST

Minnesota Game Was Moral Victory for Badgers With Opponents Doped to Win

Madison—Wisconsin has taken new hope on football prospects as result of the showing made against Minnesota last Saturday. While the score ended a tie, it was a moral victory for the Badgers as their opponents were rared to win by an easy margin.

Coach Jack Ryan and his staff of assistants Monday began a new set of workouts in preparation for the Michigan game at Ann Arbor next Saturday. Ryan is believed to have discovered his best working machine and this week will spend the time knocking off the rough spots which loomed up in the Gopher contest.

Contrary to general expectations, the Badger coach did little shifting in Saturday's game. The lineup which started carried through the game except for line changes. The coach apparently was so well satisfied with the showing of the Larson-Harmon-Harris-Harmon quarter in the backfield that he let it go. Larson, playing for the first time at quarter, handled the team excellently. In the opinion of dopesters, and can be expected to see action in every game at the pilot position.

The team came through the game in excellent shape, coaches report. Pulaski, one of Ryan's chief end mainstays, received an injury and had to be replaced, but he probably will be ready for the Michigan game next Saturday at Ann Arbor.

Sox Star Seeks Job As Leader

Philadelphia—Eddie Collins, famous second sacker of the Chicago White Sox has managerial aspirations. Not until this year did Collins become imbued with the thought that he would like to take charge of a big league club.

Previously he has always said he would prefer to play while he could and let some one else do the worrying. At the same time he intimated that he had no objection to taking a whirl at the managerial job when his playing days were over.

Last season when Manager Johnny Evers was out of the game for about six weeks due to an operation for appendicitis, the team was turned over to Collins. Under his direction it did very well. He liked the job.

Now he wants to try it before he is through as a player. The success of Speaker, Cobb, Slesser and Harris have inspired him.

Apparently there is some difference between Collins and Comiskey, owner of the Sox. Otherwise it is hard to see why he failed to turn the club over to Collins when Kid Gleason retired as manager.

Certainly it would be a hard job to find a more efficient playing manager than the brilliant second basemen of the White Sox.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Wladek Zbysko, Polish wrestler, threw Henry Steinbach in an elimination match to decide the like contender for the world's title held by Ed (Strangler) Lewis.

BIG TEN SEEKING TEAM TO DISPUTE ILLINOIS' CLAIM

Chicago Is Only Squad With Conference Standing Equal to Illini

By Associated Press

Chicago—Search for a team to dispute Illinois' claim to the 1924 title is an all absorbing pastime in the Western conference as an aftermath of last week's contests. The challenger may be provided this week, Chicago, which is the only team with a conference standing equal to the Illini, which meets Nov. 8, gets a test of strength from Ohio State, conqueror of Purdue and third in the Big Ten rating.

Another contender is likely to emerge from the Iowa-Minnesota tie at Iowa City. Both teams have only tie games to their credit. Michigan, temporarily out of the running as the result of its defeat by Illinois, has a chance to come back at Wisconsin's expense but the Badgers with a tie on their record, hope to advance their own standing.

In practice this week Chicago's attack is working smoother and its defense is improving with particular attention being paid by Coach Stagg to the aerial game he anticipates from Ohio State. At the Buckeye camp with the regulars in fine fettle after the non-conference engagement last week, intensive drills are the working program.

Coach Bill Spaulding at Minneapolis is experimenting with backfield shifts for Iowa whose sessions stress fundamentals of line play and preparation of relief men. A general reorganization of Michigan whose players

Valley Boxing Fans Attracted By Prelims On Appleton Program

Johnston Signs Battling Herb to Meet Jake Lang and "Washie" Hendricks to Battle Beck

By Associated Press

Battling Herb and Jake Lang, both of Oshkosh, have been signed for the semi-windup of the Oct. 25, boxing card here and the announcement seems to be attracting more interest than the prospective clash between Jimmy Cowley of Chicago and Johnny Heiderer, Butternut producer, who meet in the main go. At least this is true in the home town of the two battlers. Promoters from the entire valley have been trying for years to bring these two boys together. Every kind of inducement was offered, but until Elmer Johnston saved them for his next card, none and less successful.

Now that the match has been arranged Oshkosh fans are taking stock of their means of transportation and promise to send one of the largest delegations seen here for years.

Herb will be obliged to concede his rival the advantage in weight. He can make 124 pounds, but this is too light for Lang and therefore the contracts were made out at 130 pounds at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the fight. The Battler fought Gene Cannon of Milwaukee here on the Stribling card weighing 124, and all those who saw him can testify as to his ability. Both Herb and Lang are well known in this city, and Lang's defeat of Young Church in a Green Bay ring won him a host of friends here.

HENDRICKS MEETS BECK

Another battle which is commanding a goodly share of attention is that between "Washie" Hendricks of Kaukauna and Battling Beck of Fond du Lac. Washie is one of the best welterweights in this neck of the woods, and many of his more fans claim he is better than Jack Zwick who taught him his stuff. They still train together and it is evident that Jack no longer can make much of an impression on his pupil, so greatly has he improved. Hendricks will meet a tough foe in Beck. He is a rugged fighter who uses both mits with equal facility, and recently knocked out Walter Prockno in one round at Fond du Lac.

Probably one of the Appleton boys will be given a chance in the curtain raiser. Johnston is looking them over to find which is in the best shape, and will pit his choice against a worthy opponent.

With two classy preliminaries back in a good windup, Johnston is sure of a good gate.

COZY DOLAN WILL START SUIT FOR SHARE OF MONEY

Former Giant Coach Doesn't Know Against Whom to Take Action

New York—"Cozy" Dolan will file suit for a share in the world's series money. That much is practically settled. The only question bothering the dispossessed coach of the Giants is, Who to sue for his share of the spoils.

For sentimental reasons "Cozy" is reluctant to sue the New York Giants. His former connections with them and the hope of getting back into the good graces of the owners makes him cautious in that direction. It is almost certain now that Judge Landis high commissioner of baseball, will be the defendant.

COZY AN ELIGIBLE

The world's series money is "Cozy's" main problem. That, in fact, was the object of his final meeting with McGraw at Giant headquarters before McGraw departed for Canada. The players' share was more than $4,000 each, and "Cozy" was one of the eligibles.

The case is now in the hands of his attorneys and it is believed that the suit will be filed within two or three weeks. According to well informed people, "Cozy" has a good case. Judge Landis' decision was purely arbitrary. Nothing, even according to Landis, was proved against "Cozy" in the bribery attempt case. The judge wasn't satisfied with Dolan's explanation and out he went.

Toledo, Ohio—Rosy Story, Lancaster, Pa., defeated Ernie Gooseman, Chicago, in 12 rounds.

MEET STRONG SQUAD

While both line and backfield worked well in straight football Saturday morning more than that will be required in the battle with LaCrosse. The LaCrosse schoolers are said to be nearly perfect in every department of the game and their record so far this season bears out this statement. Saturday they blanked Eau Claire, 12 to 0, and the only game they have lost so far was against Winona, Minn.

The expenses connected with this contest will be blither than for any other and the high school authorities are making every effort to make a success financially. The senior class has taken charge of publicity and ticket sales, and their work so far has met with considerable success. Special tickets are on sale at 50 cents each and it is still possible to obtain season tickets at $2. A large block of tickets is available at the Appleton Sport shop for the convenience of those who want them, and the student body is trying to reach as many fans as possible.

According to present indications the sales will exceed all previous seasons. The game without serious injury and all of them were out for dull Monday afternoon. Monday

News About And For Farmers

ROT WILL KEEP SPUD MARKET LOW FOR WHILE

Buyers Must Gamble on Potatoes That Have Not Been Tested by Storage

Special to Post-Crescent
By Special Correspondent
Waupaca — Until the potato crop from this section can be marketed free from the tubers affected by dry rot there will be perhaps little change in the price situation here. Growers are receiving 35 to 40 cents a hundred pounds which is 30 cents less than a year ago and gives them approximately 20 cents a bushel.

The potato situation here is a serious and complex nature and buyers are unable to forecast the future of market conditions. The situation is unlike that of any for many years.

Growers and buyers who were consulted declare that at the time the 1924 crop was planted there was a general desire to accomplish an early sowing, due to the fact that in the fall of 1923 an early frost in September killed all vegetation growth in Waupaca and surrounding countries. The yield of potatoes was curtailed nearly 50 per cent on this account.

WEATHER WAS CONTRARY

Weather conditions stood in the way of these intentions and plantings were late again. The growing season was favorable to majority of the crops, although wet weather drowned out many acres. On the other hand, the rains were beneficial to the crops on light, high land. A serious turn of the weather occurred late in the season, with unusually heavy rains. This caused the blight which in turn in duces dry rot.

This disease starts directly under the skin of the potato and spreads throughout the entire body of the vegetable. Dry rot, in its early stages can be detected by the eye. It will develop in a few days after potatoes have been in storage. However, and most of the affected stock then can be sorted out.

The situation confronting the farmers and buyers is that they are unable to detect unrotted potatoes and until the crop is fully harvested and has undergone the process of developing all affected stock the market is a gamble to the producers and buyers alike. Prices therefore are affected to such an extent that the producer is forced to defer his sales until later or accept whatever is offered.

ROT IN ALL SACKS

An experiment was conducted by one Waupaca dealer to determine what he might expect from the potatoes he bought. Twenty loads of potatoes he received were assorted carefully by hand and all potatoes affected with dry rot were thrown out. The buyer took a sackful from each load and kept these for three days. The sacks then were emptied and everyone of them contained some potatoes with dry rot although none was perceptible at the time they were sorted. Only a few were found in some bags and the others were rotted to the extent of about 50 per cent.

This explains readily why prices in central Wisconsin are as at present. Wisconsin seems to be the only state so affected however. Until farmers are able to market their crop free from dry rot it is readily seen that price conditions cannot improve.

W. H. Moyer, local representative of the United States department of agriculture and cooperating with the Wisconsin department of markets says price quotations for Friday Oct. 1, cash to growers at Waupaca were 35 to 40 cents a hundred pounds, compared with 65 to 75 cents the same date last year. The Chicago market for carload lots this year was 75 to 80 cents on the same date and last year was $1 and 15.

ESTIMATE BIG CROP

The number of cars shipped to date this year for the United States is 1,444 as compared with 1,521 last year, according to Mr. Moyer. Wisconsin shipped 72 cars on Oct. 17 this year and 89 on the same day a year ago. Market comment that day at Waupaca was: "Hauling moderate, demand and trading very slow and market weak." The Chicago market comment was "Supplies heavy early, demand, trading limited and market steady for good stock."

Market News Service also gave out in daily bulletin No. 20 issued Oct. 19 the bureau of crop estimates' report of the probable production of white potatoes for the entire United States. This was placed at 42,350,000 bushels as based on conditions Oct. 1. The figure is 10,147,000 bushels higher than the estimate of Sept. 1 and 11,118,000 bushels more than the estimate of 41,239,000 bushels for the season of 1923. The Wisconsin estimate for this year is placed at 2,110,000 bushels compared with 2,012,000 bushels in 1923 and 40,772,000 bushels in 1922.

Final estimate of the entire United States this year of 11,118,000 bushels more than that of 1923 may be more than offset by dry rot in Wisconsin according to some opinions. It is believed that if Wisconsin potatoes are marketed later with no discrimination because of the fact that dry rot will have been eliminated, prices may be similar to those of 1923 assuming that consumption will be the same.

Cows Fed On Treated Sawdust Increase Milk Yield And Show Gains In Weight

Portland, Ore.—Sawdust is now being used successfully as a stock food.

Recent experiments in laboratory and field have resulted in satisfactory conclusion with regard to the feeding of hydrolized or 'digested' sawdust.

Fed in amounts up to 30 per cent of the total of all feeds, horses and cattle have shown weight gains from 25 to 50 pounds in one month. The milk volume from cows has been increased an average of 12 per cent.

The sawdust—spruce, fir, larch, birch or hemlock may be used—is first digested in a tank which breaks down the tough tissues of the wood and forms about 25 per cent of sugar to which is added a small quantity of molasses to make the mixture more palatable.

Several plans on the Pacific coast and Great Lakes region are installing apparatus for manufacturing this cheap stock food. Sawdust is usually readily obtainable as mill waste or may be made by deslating mill refuse at the hydrolizing plant.

The digestibility of this edible sawdust is from 85 to 97 per cent. Cattle eat it readily if it is mixed with other foods, but they do not take to it by itself.

Horses, sheep, goats, hogs and cows thrive on hydrolized sawdust, and before many years it is expected this will form an important part of the diet of these animals on account of cheapness and because of its weight producing and, in the case of cows, milk increasing advantages.

HOLSTEINS OWNED BY H. C. STICHMAN LEAD IN TESTING

Highest 30-day Record Is 61.3 Pounds of Butterfat—Takes High Herd Record

H. C. Stichman had the highest producing cow for the month of September in Dale-Hortonville Cow Testing association according to the report of Clement Rickaby official tester. She was a purebred Holstein giving 1,614 pounds of milk the equal of 61.3 pounds of butterfat. Her milk had an average test of 3.8 per cent fat.

Mr. Stichman also had the high herd for the month, as his cows averaged 1,193 pounds of milk in the 30-day test or 422 pounds of butterfat.

Twenty-eight cows produced 40 pounds of butterfat or more. The highest records were:

Hickory Nuts Plentiful But Have No Meat

BY W. F. WINSEY
If the hickory nut crop has anything to do with it, this winter will be a hard one on kids and squirrels. This is the hickory nut year and the trees are loaded with nuts. Other favorable conditions are early frosts and no ice storms coming from over the groves to embarrass hickory pickers. But when the nuts are picked, covered and cracked and cooked they are found to be empty. Occasionally a tree makes a better nut but in some groves 80 per cent of the nuts are defective.

REMOVING HYDROLIZED SAWDUST FROM A RETORT

What Your Neighbor Is Doing

(This column relates interesting things that are going on at the farms in this vicinity. Every farmer is invited to contribute items about his crops, herds, poultry or his farm itself. Mail or telephone them to "Farm Editor.")

Deer Creek — Andrew Lendved, raised 12 acres of corn this season which proved as good as the average in his vicinity. He did not have enough to fill his silo 12 by 30 feet in size, as the silage came only to a height of 16 feet. With the usual crop of a normal year, Mr. Lendved says he fills the same silo from the yield on four and one-half acres. On account of a shortage of corn and other feed, Mr. Lendved and other farmers will be compelled to sell some of their cattle. Mr. Lendved has lived in Deer Creek 50 years and he declares he has never seen corn as high as this year.

Deer Creek — The Lily cheese factory is now turning out certified cheese. Twenty-eight patrons with a total of 500 cows are supplying this factory with milk. The cows were tested for tuberculosis last summer and only 11 reactors were discovered in the whole number. Ten of the reactors belonged to one herd and one to another according to a statement of Andrew Lendved. As a result of the cleaning up, Mr. Lendved expects that the factory will soon be setting top prices for cheese.

Oneida — A community fair under auspices of Oneida Methodist church was held in the Epworth hall on Saturday. Farm products were exhibited and J. N. Cavanaugh, county agent, Brown Co., acted as judge. A baseball game between home teams was played in the afternoon. Miss Marie Kinn county nurse, Outagamie Co., talked to the mothers on the care of children and foods for children, and to the girls on the care of the body and first aid. A chicken dinner and supper were served by the women of the church.

Stevensville — Farmers here are busy digging potatoes. This is disagreeable task this year because of the discovery that about half the crop is affected by dry rot and the prices are down to a few cents a bushel. The recent heavy rains caused the rot to become prevalent and some of the farmers have plowed the crop under, declaring it did not pay to dig potatoes at prevailing prices with the corresponding high cost of labor.

Center Valley — To raise one good crop in a field each year is invariably considered a first class farming in this part of the state. W. M. Miller, a first crop raised 20 bushels to the acre of seed peas. On July 15, he seeded the same field to peas again. The second crop is nearly ripe and is a thrifty one.

to thresh the last crop and to use the peas and vines for feed.

Shiocton — Henry John's corn, cabbage and pickles were almost completely drowned out this summer. A 13-acre field of cabbage will probably yield not more than 15 tons. Twenty-one acres of corn were used to fill 15 feet of a silo, 12 by 36 feet. Last year seven acres filled the silo. His income from a three-quarter acre patch of pickles was $20.

BLACKBIRDS ARE STEALING GRAINS

BY W. F. WINSEY

In the vicinity of lakes and rivers in Waupaca and Outagamie counties myriads of blackbirds have destroyed at least a third of the corn and small grain. When the corn was in the milk, the birds with the skill and greed of hogs, ripped husks from the ears and uniformly removed the upper third of the kernels. A number of farmers made prolonged attempts to check the depredations of the birds with shotguns. But when the birds were flushed in one part of the field, they moved only a short distance in the same field.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Any one who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs. Into a pint bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it. You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon breaks up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

NYHUS SEES UPTURN IN FARM SITUATION

Gross Value of Crops Will Be Higher Than Year Ago In His Opinion

Madison — Agriculture has traveled a long lane of distress but the upturn in wheat and hogs plus well-sustained cotton prices, has brought a turn in the road, declares a statement on present agricultural conditions by Paul O. Nyhus, federal-state crop statistician for Wisconsin.

"As things stand, it looks as though most of the major crops will have a higher gross value than last year," Nyhus states. "This has been widely heralded, numerous spokesmen having been busily counting the farmers' blessings ever since corn was knee high."

"The wheat situation has changed greatly since last fall when growers were wondering where they could borrow enough money to pay their taxes. The countrywide yield will apparently run over 15 bushels per acre, the best in six years. The rise in wheat prices may be attributed to a short Canadian crop as much as any one factor."

"The other major money crops also give good promise. Potatoes and fruit are on the way to good crops and apparently fairly good prices. Cotton looks like the largest crop with the best income in five years. The feed outlook is good as to roughage and small grains. There is plenty of hay, and oats are turning out a splendid yield practically everywhere. Corn is not so promising. "All in all, agriculture is coming through in decidedly the best shape since 1920. The improvement is not without its causes. There is a double-barreled lesson for producers in the situation—that prices respond when supply comes down to the level of demand, and that this season's rise in wheat and corn prices is a good deal due to a freak of the weather."

Lawrence Showing At Iowa City Sinks In

Remarkable Game Played by Blues Draws Tribute Not Only from Home Boosters
but Even from Hostiles

As the full extent of the heroic fight of Lawrence, college football team, in the last game of the season is being revealed, followers of the sport here are marveling more and more at the fine machine which has been turned out by Coach Mark Catlin in a few short weeks. Appreciation is not limited to the home folks, however. Before the blue team left the Iowa university city, dozens of Iowa men had complimented Catlin on their splendid showing and expressed surprise that so powerful a team could be built up in so relatively small a city.

Although Eddie Kotal held the spotlight in a few sensational plays he did not outshine the remainder of the team. Pete Brlese was a terror with the ball and once almost got away with a touchdown. He had eluded four of five tacklers in the line of scrimmage and there was but one man between him and the goal posts. The veteran Iowa man coming from in front and pursued by a pack of Iowans from the rear cornered Brlese and he was downed after a substantial gain. At bit of hard luck also prevented a touchdown. Iowa found close to the Lawrence line and Kotal, breaking through the line, scooped up the ball on the dead run. There wasn't a man between him and the Iowa goal posts but he was going so fast when he picked up the ball that he lost his balance and fell, spilling a splendid chance to run away from the Big Ten squad.

COOKE IS SENSATION
One of the sensations of the game was Ozzy Cooke. This long slender fellow who thus far this season played ordinary ball, found himself and became a star. He picked passes out of the air with remarkable skill, played a whiz of a game on the defense and was responsible for several long gains. Another wizard in the line was Hipke, a newcomer. Hipke hadn't played much of any football up to ten days ago but he acted like a veteran at Iowa City. Hipke doesn't know much as yet about the science of tackling but he does know that one of the cardinal tenets is "hit 'em hard" and he can and did do that to perfection. Almost every time Hipke hit an Iowa man he was a signal for time out.

The whole team played that kind of a game and Iowa was taking out time with alarming frequency. Jake Stoll was the only Lawrence man to be really injured but at least a half dozen Hawkeyes had to be helped from the field so vicious was the attack of the Methodists. Stoll showed that he has a heart of iron when he was injured. Jake was near exhaustion when he suffered a wrenched knee but he tried to get back into the game. Catlin ordered his mates to carry him off the field, but Stoll, remembering his coach's instructions not to take out time except under the most trying conditions, pushed his teammates away and hobbled to the bench unaided. He was given a mighty cheer from the 10,000 Hawkeyes in the stands.

BOTH TEAMS PENALIZED
Both teams suffered penalties. Iowa more than Lawrence. The Hawkeyes, disgusted toward the end of the game because of their inability to solve the Lawrence attack and to make gains through the line, resorted to a few tricks which brought severe penalties, but on the whole the game was cleanly played. Lawrence gained many more yards than Iowa, totaling 204 during the game while Iowa pined up 145. But for a lucky break close to the start of the game Iowa would not have scored a touchdown.

Coach Catlin had his men out Monday evening but was easy with them. The boys were stiff and sore and Monday night's work was in the nature of a limbering-up exercise. He will resume actual training Tuesday afternoon for the battle at Elgin next Saturday. Ripon scored the Iowa game, getting a line on the Blue offense, and it is possible that Catlin will teach his squad a new style of attack for the special benefit of the Red team.

Both teams are bowling in mid-season form and a hard fight is in prospect.

WISCONSIN HOPES
BRIGHTEN AFTER
GOPHER CONTEST

Minnesota Game Was Moral
Victory for Badgers With Opponents Doped to Win

MADISON—Wisconsin has taken new hope on football prospects as result of the showing made against Minnesota last Saturday. While the score ended a tie, it was a moral victory for the Badgers as their opponents were rated to win by an easy margin.

Coach Jack Ryan and his staff of assistants Monday began a new set of workouts in preparation for the Michigan game at Ann Arbor next Saturday. Ryan is believed to have discovered his best working machine and this week will spend the time knocking off the rough spots which loomed up in the Gopher contest.

Contrary to general expectations, the Badger coach did little shifting in Saturday's game. The lineup which started carried through the game except for line changes. The coach apparently was so well satisfied with the showing of the Larson-Harmon-Harris-Harmon quartet in the backfield that he let it go. Larson, playing for the first time at quarter, handled the team excellently, in the opinion of dopesters, and can be expected to see action in every game at the pillar position.

The team came through the game in excellent shape, coaches report. Pulaski, one of Ryan's chief end mainstays, received an injury and had to be replaced, but he probably will be ready for the Michigan game next Saturday at Ann Arbor.

Sox Star
Seeks Job
As Leader

Philadelphia—Eddie Collins, famous second sacker of the Chicago White Sox has managerial aspirations.

Not until this year did Collins become imbued with the thought that he would like to take charge of a big league club. Previously he has always said he would prefer to play while he could and let some one else do the worrying. At the same time he intimated that he had no objection to taking a whirl at the managerial job when his playing days were over.

Last season when Manager Johnny Evers was out of the game for about six weeks due to an operation for appendicitis, the team was turned over to Collins. Under his direction it did very well. He liked the job.

Now he wants to try it before he is through as a player. The success of Speaker, Cobb, Sisler and Harris have inspired him.

However, he doesn't seem to think there is much chance of him getting the Chicago club. In fact, he would probably be more satisfied to manage elsewhere.

Apparently there is some difference between Collins and Comiskey, owner of the Sox. Otherwise it is hard to see why he failed to turn the club over to Collins when Kid Gleason retired as manager.

Certainly it would be a hard job to find a more efficient playing manager than the brilliant second baseman of the White Sox.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Wladek Zyzko, Polish wrestler, threw Henry Stein, back in an elimination match to decide the like contender for the world's title held by Ed (Strangler) Lewis.

Orange Gridders See
Hard Battle On Home
Field With LaCrosse

Showing Made by Appleton
Saturday Against Manitowoc
in Aerial Tactics Was Unsatisfactory

Although Appleton high school has won two out of its three grid games this year after a very poor start at Sheboygan, Coach Jule Kevin still finds much more room for improvement in his string and is putting the youngsters through a harder system of workouts than ever before in preparation for their clash with LaCrosse high on Lawrence field Saturday afternoon. Added to the probability that this will be the hardest game of the year for the Orange squad, is the fact that Kevin is a graduate of the LaCrosse school, which combine to make the meeting doubly important.

The Appleton youngsters showed remarkable fight in Saturday's game against Manitowoc, which carried them through to a lopsided victory, but their aerial tactics were absolutely ineffective and a number of funny blies at critical moments threatened to give the Shipbuilders a chance to score. The Orange gridders came through the game without serious injury and all of them were out for drill Monday afternoon. Kevin is teaching them several new formations but his chief efforts are directed toward showing his charges how to handle the ball.

MEET STRONG SQUAD
While both line and backfield worked well in straight football Saturday more than that will be required in the battle with LaCrosse. The LaCrosse schoolers are said to be nearly perfect in every department of the game and their record so far this season bears out this statement. Saturday they blanked Eau Claire, 12 to 0, and the only game they have lost so far was against Winona, Minn.

The expenses connected with this contest will be higher than for any other and the high school authorities are making every effort to make it a success financially. The senior class has taken charge of publicity and ticket sales, and their work so far has met with considerable success. Special tickets are on sale at 50 cents each and it still is possible to obtain season tickets at $2. A large block of tickets is available at the Appleton Sport shop for the convenience of those who want them, and the student body is trying to reach as many fans as possible.

According to present indications the sales will exceed all previous seasons.

BIG TEN SEEKING
TEAM TO DISPUTE
ILLINOIS' CLAIM

Chicago Is Only Squad With Conference Standing Equal to Illini

By Associated Press

Chicago—Search for a team to dispute Illinois' claim to the 1924 title is an all absorbing pastime in the West-end conference as an aftermath of last week's contests. The challenger may be provided this week. Chicago, which is the only team with a conference standing equal to the Illini, which is meets Nov. 8, gets a test of strength from Ohio State, conqueror of Purdue and third in the Big Ten rating.

Another contender is likely to emerge from the Iowa-Minnesota melee at Iowa City. Both teams have only the games to their credit. Michigan, temporarily out of the running as the result of its defeat by Illinois, has a chance to come back at Wisconsin's expense but the Badgers with a tie on their record, hope to advance their own standing.

In practice this week Chicago's attack is working smoother and its defense is improving with particular attention being paid by Coach Stagg to the aerial game he anticipates from Ohio State. At the Buckeye camp with the regulars in fine fettle after the non-conference engagement last week, intensive drills are the working program.

Coach Bill Spaulding at Minneapolis is experimenting with backfield shifts for Iowa whose sessions stress fundamentals of line play and preparation of relief men. A general reorganization of Michigan whose players

Johnston Signs Battling Herb
to Meet Jake Lang and
"Washie" Hendricks to Bat-

By Associated Press

Battling Herb and Jake Lang, both of Oshkosh, have been signed for the semi-windup of the Oct. 28, boxing card here and the announcement seems to be attracting more interest than the prospective clash between Jimmy Heiderer, Butternut product, who meet in the main go. At least this is true in the home town of the two battlers. Promoters from the entire valley have been trying for years to bring these two boys together. Every kind of inducement was offered, but until Elmer Johnston signed them for his next card, none had been successful.

Now that the match has been arranged Oshkosh fans are taking stock of their means of transportation and promise to send one of the latest delegations seen here for years.

Herb will be obliged to concede his are far from discouraged at the outcome of Saturday's game, is being worked out with an improved team against Wisconsin the objective. Plenty of reserve material is being developed at Wisconsin.

rival the advantage in weight. He can make 124 pounds, but this is too light for Lang and therefore the contracts were made out at 130 pounds at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the fight. The Battler fought Gene Gannon of Milwaukee here on the Stribling card weighing 124, and all those who saw him can testify as to his ability. Both Herb and Lang are well known in this city, and Lang's defeat of Young Church in a Green Bay ring won him a host of friends here.

HENDRICKS MEETS BECK

Another battle which is commanding a goodly share of attention is that between "Washie" Hendricks of Kaukauna and Battling Beck of Fond du Lac. Washie is one of the best welterweights in this neck of the woods, and many of his more fans claim he is better than Jack Zwick who taught him his stuff. They still train together and it is evident that Jack no longer can make much of an impression on his pupil, so greatly has he improved. Hendricks will meet a tough foe in Beck. He is a rugged fighter who uses both mitts with equal facility, and recently knocked out Walter Frockno in one round at Fond du Lac.

Probably one of the Appleton boys will be given a chance in the curtain raiser Johnston is looking them over to find which is in the best shape and will fit his choice against a worthy opponent.

With two classy preliminaries backing a good windup, Johnston is sure of a good gate.

Former Giant Coach Doesn't Know Against Whom to Take Action

New York—"Cozy" Dolan will file suit for a share in the world's series money. That much is practically settled. The only question bothering the dismissed coach of the Giants is just whom to sue for his share of the spoils.

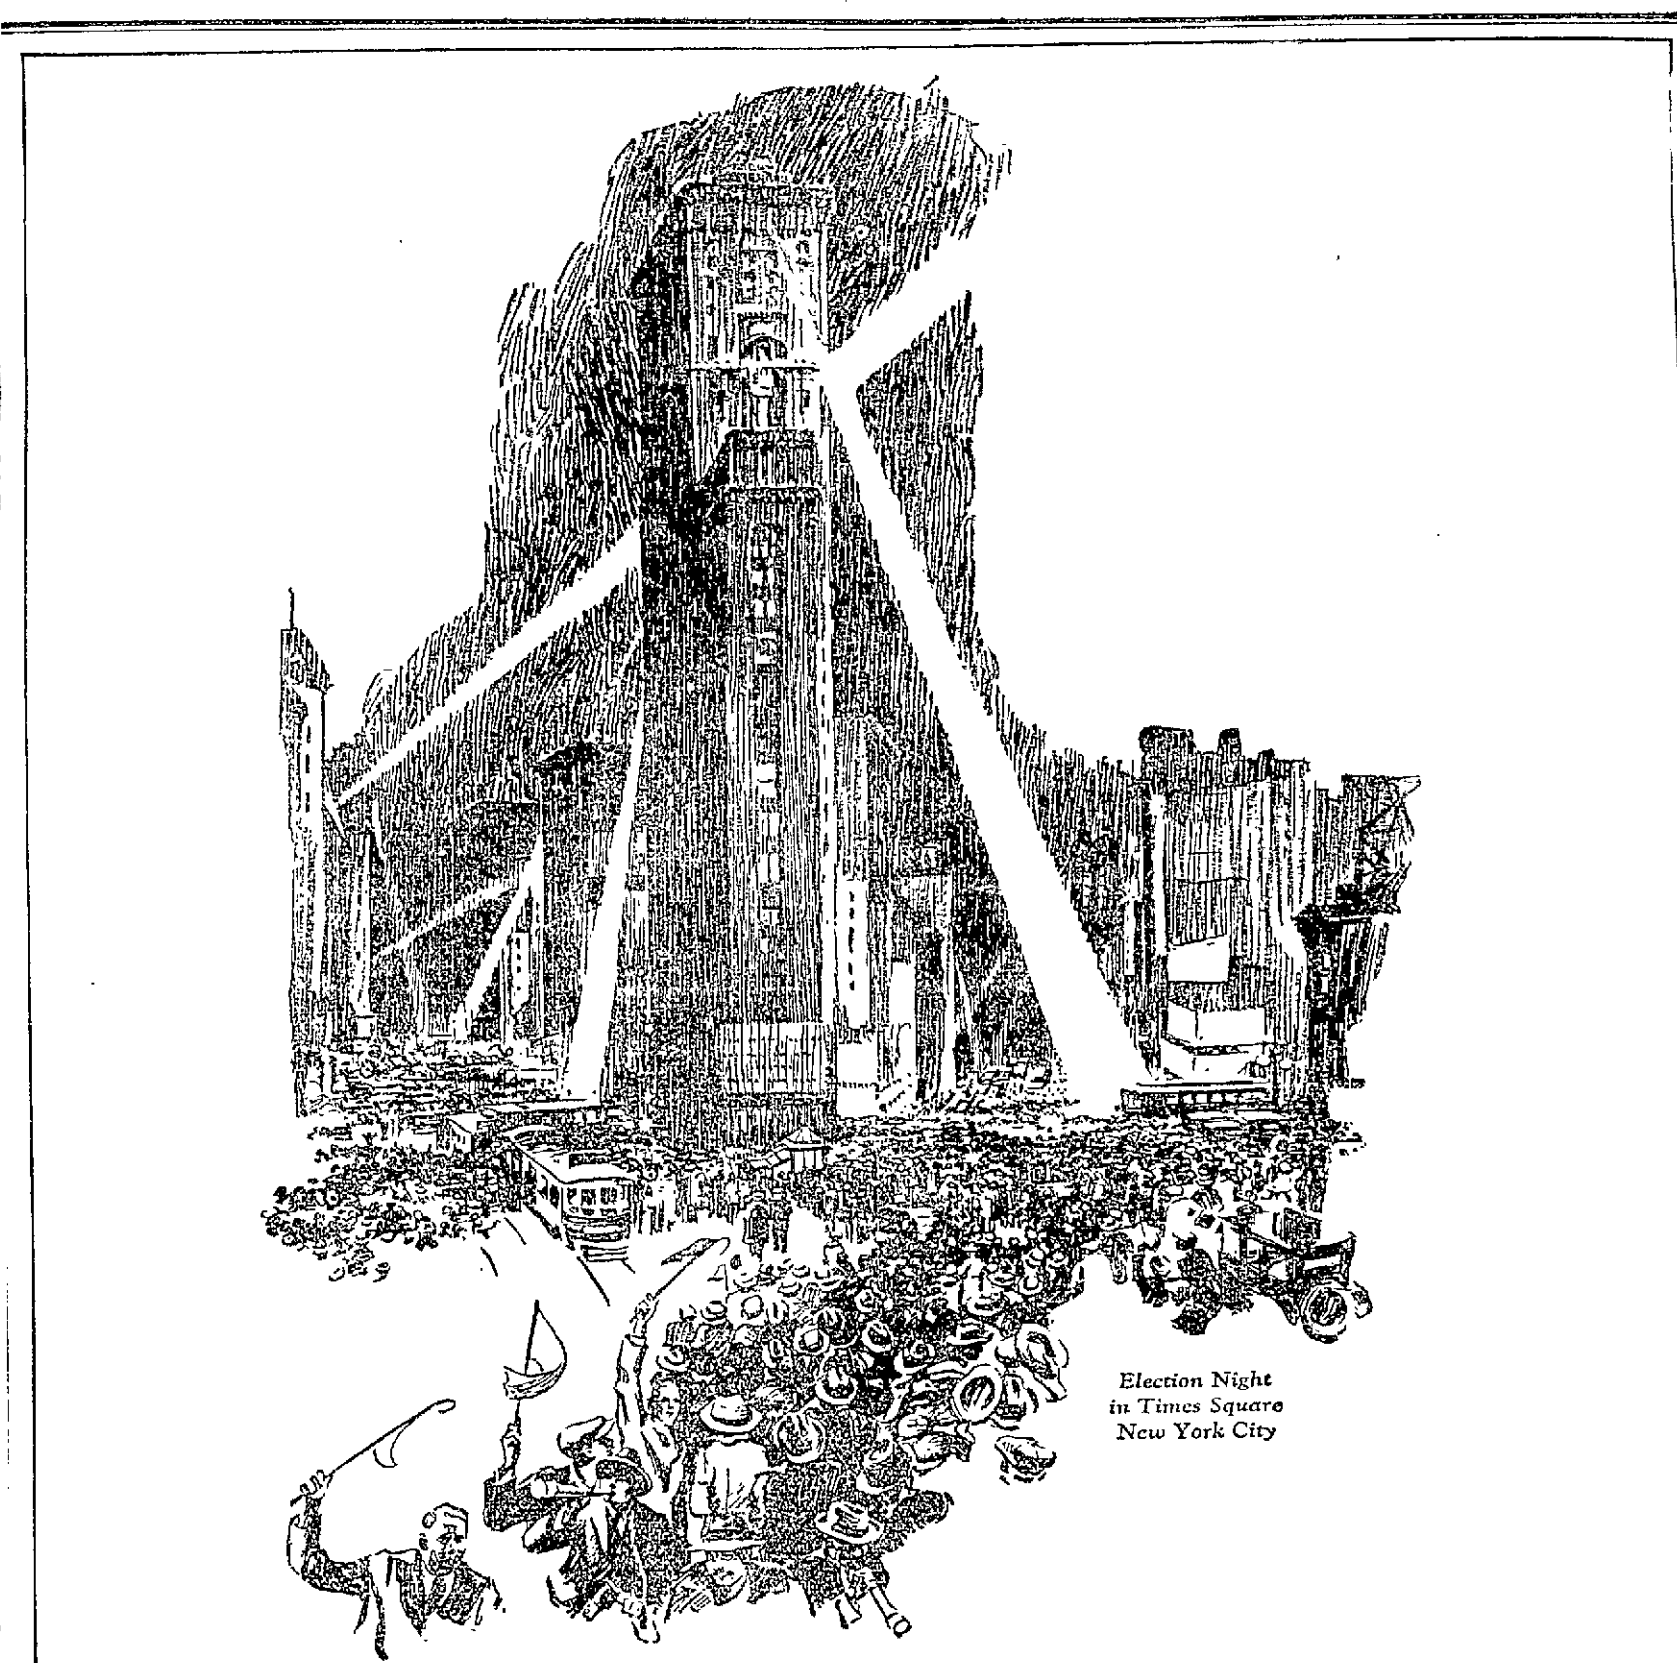

For sentimental reasons Cozy is reluctant to sue the New York Giants. His former connections with them and the hope of getting back into the good graces of the powers makes him cautious in that direction. It is almost certain now that Judge Landis high commissioner of Baseball, will be the defendant.

COZY AN ELIGIBLE

The world's series money is Cozy's main problem. That, in fact, was the object of his final meeting with McGraw at Giant headquarters before McGraw departed for Canada. The players' share was more than $4,000 each and Cozy was one of the eligibles.

The case is now in the hands of the attorneys and it is believed that the suit will be filed within two or three weeks. According to well informed people, Cozy has a good case. Judge Landis' decision was purely arbitrary. Nothing, even according to Landis, was proved against Cozy in the bribery attempt case. The judge wasn't satisfied with Dolan's explanation and out it went.

"The Nervous Wreck"

By E. J. Rath

"What gets me," he said, "is why anybody brought the damn thing here at all. What's the idea? And how did they get it here on three wheels? There ain't anything reasonable about any part of it. There ain't anything you can get a good start on for figurin'. Odd times I've seen things that surprised me. But this has got me laid sort of flat out."
Underwood made a restless posture of impatience.
"I'm sorry the sheriff got away so early," he said. "He might be able to make some sense out of it. It seems that nobody around my ranch knows anything at all about anything."
"I reckon we all look stupid," confessed Charley. "I ain't sayin' you've got grounds for thinkin' so. It was the boss, and anything like that happened around my place I'd just naturally take a few folks apart until I got the answer. That's the way I'd feel."
Underwood finished a calculating study of his foreman, then waved an arm in dismissal.
"We'll talk about this again in the morning," he said. "It wouldn't like to think there has been anything worse than stupidity."
"I wouldn't want to think so myself," said Charley. "Good night."
He went out with the lantern, passed through the dining room and pantry and entered the empty kitchen, where he sat down and began filling his pipe.
"Well, I've made a high-grade ass out of myself," he mused. "I got started that way and there wasn't anything else to do. How in blazes was I goin' to tell him that I picked up the first stick-up gang that came along and turned 'em into a cook and dish-washer, without askin' for reference? And he believin' that Providence sent 'em!"
He tipped the chair against the wall and looked his heels in the runs.
"I lied the only way that was fit for the occasion. If I'd had excited and brazen it wouldn't have held good overnight. So I lied calm and sure. I said I was always brought up believin' that a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth. But I ain't sure. It's sort of disconcertin'."
He fell into a long reverie, which came to an end when he humpered earnestly:
"The son of a gun!"

CHAPTER XV
Coaxing—or Coercion
By morning after he had snatched a few hours sleep in the bunk house, Charley McSwain had given much thought to the affair of the flivver and the Henry Williams. He could not afford to lose a good cook and dish-washer. That would make more trouble with the boss than holding him up on the road. And if he let them ride away as they had come, it signified a confession that implicated him as deeply as any of the principals.
The problem of keeping them on the job was really simplified, Charley had a certain allowance of confidence. He was tolerant and good-hearted. He had admitted to himself that the conscription of a pair of honeymooners was a mean trick, even in the face of dire necessity. But now he knew something, or believed he did, and it amounted to a justification. It removed scruples. He made their made their slumbers. He not only knew it, but he felt that he could profitably use it. It was neither blackmail nor duress, but merely persuasion. He could show them what the consequences of an attempted getaway might be.

For some reason that probably went back to instinct, he had never taken the holdup of James Underwood and his family with any deep feeling of shock. It had not seriously disturbed his moral sense. Now, he regarded the affair even more lightly. Besides, there was Sally to be considered. She was a mighty fine girl, he had decided almost from the start; he looked upon her as one of his own people. If she had married a bandit, it was unfortunate, of course. But had she? He had his doubts about Henry. He could not figure him accurately, or even approximately, but it was hardest of all to figure him as a bandit, according to the evidence.
There was one more consideration in the back of his head—the sheriff. There was nothing personal about it, in the sense of a specific grievance. He could not have explained it any better than the verifiers who did not like Dr. Fell. But he did not like Dr. Fell. And he did not like Henry Williams, and he did not see any reason for throwing business in his way, particularly when it did not impress him as being of a really serious character.
He took the earliest opportunity to interview the Wreck and Sally McSwain, which happened to be during the washing of the breakfast dishes.
"The three-wheeled wonder," said Charley, "has become known to the family."

"The Wreck's towel paused in the middle of a mopping movement."
"No, Henry; not through me," added Charley. "It was discovered as a result of my curiosity on the part of the boss. He has learned the whole story of the Wreck."
"Well," frowned the Wreck.
"The news hasn't been communicated to the old man, and he's havin' examined the flivver party, there is a sort of notion—not positive, but leanin' in that direction—that this particular flivver was not before."
Sally and the Wreck both looked at Charley and waited.

"The discovery been put up to me," continued Charley. "I violated a considerable part of my principles by givin' any knowledge. The reason ain't important. The main thing is I come out of this conversation with the boss as one of two things—either a confirmed liar or a partner in a scheme which means one of the same thing. I ain't the proper person to be puttin' it. According to the boss's version, I didn't know any more about that flivver than if she had come droppin' out of the sky."

He paused and studied the pair. Sally was pink in the cheeks and was bluing at her under lip, a sure sign of doubt. The Wreck was inscrutable.
"Well," he repeated.
"We're gettin' to the point," said Charley. "The point is, I reckon I'm the only person on the ranch who can tell the sheriff of this free and independent country just where it might pay him to head in."
"Well!"
"You have a disappointin' way of shovin' it all over," Henry. "I reckon we've got to decide how we're goin' to proceed with the discussion. Are we goin' to show all hands on the call, or are we goin' to proceed hypothetically?"
The Wreck looked at Sally, who was wringing her forehead into furrows. She seemed willing to leave the decision to him.
"There ain't any objection to givin' the gang five minutes for consultation," said Charley.
"Nothing to consult about," said the Wreck.
"Meanin'?"
"Meanin' we don't get you."
"H'm. It looks like the case was hypothetical!"
Sally stirred restlessly. She did not like beating around bushes.
"Can't we talk right out in meatin'?" she asked, suddenly.
"Thank you, ma'am," said Charley. "Wait," said the Wreck.
He tossed his dish towel on the drain board and edged himself into a seat on the table, from which his legs dangled loosely.
"What are you going to do about it?" he demanded.
"I figure that I'm goin' to hang on to the cook and dish-washer that was handed to me by Providence."
"Blackmail!"
"He shocked," said Charley.
"That is it, then."
"I figure coaxin' is a better word."
"Are you getting the idea you can keep us here as long as you damned please?"
The Wreck was beginning to display nervous symptoms, and Sally gave him an anxious look.
"In a way, it's out of my hands," said Charley, mildly. "Suppose I was to say to you, 'Honey-mooners, climb right into flivver and help yourself! That don't necessarily get your anything at all. The first person that climbs into that three-legged critter and tries to drive off in it is goin' to set the boss prancin' in pursuit. You don't seem to get the idea. She's bad medicine, that flivver. It ain't said to acknowledge even a passin' acquaintance. She's tainted. Mind you, Henry, I ain't accusin' her of anything. I'm merely recitin' her suspicions of others."
The Wreck was making an effort to be judicial.
"Suppose," he said, "that I was to tell your boss how you happened to get a cook and kitchen helper."
"That would be sinkin' us all in the same ship," admitted Charley. "But you ain't goin' to tell him, on account of Mrs. Williams here, who's got rights of her own in the matter."
The Wreck could see that, but he did not like to acknowledge it.
"Every idiot on the place," he said "seems to be chasing around with the idea that somebody committed a crime. Suppose it happened that there was no crime at all!"
"I'm open-minded," observed Charley.

THERMOLITE CUTS COST OF BUILDING

By Associated Press
Moscow — Russia's scarcity of living accommodations and the high cost of building material have forced the Soviet authorities to experiment in the construction of what are termed "thermolite" houses, the invention of a Russian engineer named Peter Galakhoff. A thermolite house has the conventional framework of wood, but a liquid material of heavy consistency (thermolite), composed of a sawdust, straw and common tree leaves, mixed with lime, plaster and antiseptic solution, is interspersed between the outer and inner boards.
When this mixture becomes hard, the house is rendered moisture-proof, resists decay, and is impervious to certain insects. With a coating of special paint containing the same ingredients as "thermolite," the house is also rendered fireproof. Houses of this type, according to the inventor, can be erected for 25 per cent less than the ordinary house and can be completed within six weeks.

Oriental Custom Gives Every Flapper Even Chance

New York—Now we know where the Lucy Stone Leaguers got their idea of retaining their names and personalities after marriage from—Persia.

In that far-away land of veiled ladies, jealous husbands and enchanting rose gardens, women have always done that very thing, according to Muslim Armen Ohanian, a Persian writer and dancer, who is making a tour of this country.

"The oriental woman has always kept her name and her property after marriage," this dark-eyed stranger told me, "and she always keeps her individuality—if she ever had any."

"The western idea that the oriental woman is a slave to her husband is erroneous," she went on. "If a Persian woman wishes to be divorced from her spouse, all she has to do is to go before a lawyer and sign her name to a paper, and she is free."

VEILS MAKE 'EM ALL EQUAL
We also misunderstand the psychology of wearing veils, she informs me. It is not the symbol of subjection, but rather an adroitly planned scheme to give every woman a fair deal, or at least an equal chance, in the matrimonial game.

"All the attention and thrills do not go to the beautiful there," she says. "Under a veil that conceals all but an eye, all women are practically equal."

"It is difficult to be as beautiful in reality as one may be in a man's imagination. With most of the face concealed, the man must use his imagination. There is a sense of mystery bred by concealment. With faces uncovered, as they are in certain parts of the orient today, there is less mystery, and consequently less romance."

"While there is a tendency on the part of oriental women to discard the veil, due to western influences, I believe they will resume it again. Women will realize how much they are losing from their lives when they deliberately destroy romance and break down those ancient customs upon which our eastern civilization is based."

GIRL BABIES ARE BANDAGED
Madame Ohanian said that the beautiful figures of the young oriental girls are due to the custom of bandaging.

"As a baby sleeps, it is bandaged closely, so that its body is not allowed to spread and the small muscles are trained to stay in place," she explained. "The mother also carefully shapes the child's fingers and nose with a gentle massage. All during a girl's childhood she is carefully watched and trained into habits of beauty and grace by her own mother."

"That is the reason the oriental woman never wears a corset or any artificial support for her body."

Madame Ohanian says America is a much more congenial country for the oriental woman than Europe.

"In Europe, women really are the slaves of men, and of customs and conditions that are most favorable to men," she concluded. "Only in America do I find the women as free as they are in the orient. And no husband is so indulgent as the American."

FASHION HINTS

FOR EVENING WRAPS
Fuchsia velvet is very popular this season for evening wraps and is particularly lovely over a crepe frock of the same color.

POPULAR FUR
Flying squirrel is a popular fur for winter and is particularly liked with soft materials like kasha cloth.

EVENING GOWNS
Flash-colored chiffon evening gowns with self-colored ostrich and marabou bands are seen in many versions at the most exclusive dancing places.

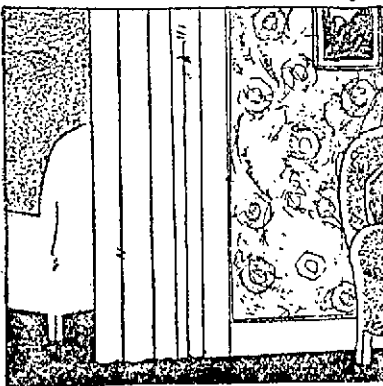

VELVET BANDS
Blas velvet bands are used for trimming collars, cuffs, tunics and pockets.

EMBROIDERY
Tiny Japanese or Chinese figures in embroidery are seen parading about waist bands, hat bands or borders generally.

DELICATE BEADING
Some beading is seen on winter coats, but it is so delicately applied that it looks more like embroidery.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER, CONTINUED

Jack, dear old Jack, met me at the station, little Marquise, and my first thought, as I caught view of him towering a little above the crowd looking for me, was how much better looking he was than Karl Whitney. I did not have time to think anything else before I was gathered up in his arms in a great bear-like hug—taken completely off my feet.

"Oh, Leslie, I've been so lonely! You'll never go away again," were his first words.

Dear little Marquise, did your kindly lover over say anything sweeter than that after you had been apart a short while? I am sure he did not.

For answer, I put my arms around his neck and kissed him again. I did not care if the whole world saw us. Jack is mine, my husband, and our love has been cemented with tears and proven by sorrow and grief and trial, as well as by ecstasy and joy.

As he dropped me lightly to my feet, he bent down and looked into my eyes. "Darling," he said, "what have you been doing to yourself? You are ever so much better looking even than before you went away."

"I haven't done anything except to love my hair."

Instantly a change came over Jack's face. "Leslie, don't tell me you have cut off your beautiful hair. You cannot have done anything so foolish."

"Why not, dear. There wasn't a hat in all New York that I could get onto my head and you yourself have just said that I was better looking now than I was before."

"I don't care," he remonstrated obstinately. "I loved your hair. You should not have cut it off without asking me. I don't want my wife to look like a flapper."

"Oh, I am looking like a flapper, am I?" I exclaimed, and then I smiled up into his face. "Jack, don't let's quarrel the moment I get off the train. Before you spoke I thought you were the handsomest man I have seen since I left, and now you look like a gruff old bear. Every woman, young or old, is bobbing her hair and you don't want me to be old fashioned and out of it all."

"I don't see why you don't like it. In fact, you do like it or rather you like me until you realized what it was that made the improvement."

"Well, I'm not angry now as much as I am hurt. I didn't think you would do such a thing without getting my approval first."

"You made no great adieu about Sally Atherton's hair being bobbed?"

"You must remember, Leslie," said John, "that Mrs. Atherton's hair was bobbed when she came to me. I certainly should have made some very unkind remarks and explained to her how very near she had come to losing her job by doing it."

"I laughed. 'It wouldn't have bothered her much because as you know Dad wants her to come back to him anyway.'"

Jack had lost his smile and I was almost ready to cry. Such little things make for happiness or unhappiness in this world. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

Adventures Of The Twins

DAVY JONES' LOCKER

The Sand Man, Captain Pennywinkle and the Twins rode away on their sea-horses.

All around them everywhere the electric fishes made the water as bright as day.

If the Twins had not been so worried about getting the lost sleepy sand, they would have noticed that under the sea there are as beautiful gardens of sea-flowers as there are on the earth. Flowers of every color were there.

But who has time to think of anything when babies all over the world are yawning their heads off nearly long after moon-up, and no Sand Man or a single grain of sleepy sand to put them to sleep.

By and by they came to Davy Jones' Locker.

Davy Jones is the gentleman who lives at the bottom of the sea. He has built himself a fine big palace out of wrecked ships, so he will have a place to entertain lost sailors who come there to visit. He is so rich that his gold would make even Captain Kidd look as poor as little black Sambo.

Nick jumped off his sea-horse and knocked at the front door.

But nobody came. Then he knocked some more. But still nobody came.

"That's queer!" said Captain Pennywinkle. "I was talking to Davy Jones just before you came. I wonder what's wrong."

He jumped off his sea-horse and the Sand Man and Nancy jumped off their sea-horses, and they all went right in, because the front door happened to be unlocked.

There sat Davy Jones at his supper, fast asleep. And his cook was fast asleep, and his butler was fast asleep and his pet dog-fish and cat-fish were sound asleep.

"Ah, ha!" said Captain Pennywinkle. "I smell a mouse. I mean I smell a mouse, for there aren't any mouses. I mean mice—I mean mice in the sea."

"What do you smell a minnow for?" asked Nancy.

"Because I have an idea," said Captain Pennywinkle. "What for is Mister Davy Jones fast asleep when he is eating his dinner? And what for is everybody else asleep? Because

What To Keep In Medicine Chest, To-Day

BY DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

In the good old days the home medicine cabinet was a stranger in most homes. The large glass camphor bottle usually occupied one end of the mantel shelf and a bottle of Arabian Balsam or some other liniment adorned the other end.

The remainder of the family medicine outfit was tucked away in one corner of a pantry shelf or carefully secreted where it might be found, if one hunted long enough or wanted it badly enough for immediate use.

Today all is different. If it isn't, it ought to be. Your family ills and ailments, cuts, bruises and burns may be well looked after and successfully "bound up" for speedy recovery, if you value your health and happiness as you should.

In country or city, today, the handy medicine cabinet is one of the best signs of keeping fit for life's battle.

It is as essential that one should know where to find the iodine bottle or small roll of gauze bandage as quickly as possible as it is to know the police call or the doctor's telephone number. These compact steel or wood cabinets may be obtained today at a very moderate cost, if one is not built into the home. Get one as soon as you can, if this most useful and necessary health aid is not already a part of your life assets.

A modest outfit should consist of the following essential aids and simple instruments:

A small pair of sharp scissors, a medicine glass (marked with the correct liquid measurements), a glass spoon (small) and a clinical thermometer for taking temperatures.

A small roll of adhesive plaster (beware of the pink and black kind in open envelopes). A small roll of absorbent cotton, for placing on simple wounds. One or two rolls of bandage one inch and two inches in width.

A small (half ounce) bottle of iodine for cuts and wounds. A collapsible tube of plain petrolatum or small bottle of same.

A small bottle of alcohol. A small bottle of flexible collodion.

A small bottle of boric acid for eyes and washes. A small bottle of aromatic spirits of ammonia.

A jar of boric acid or zinc oxide ointment is most useful.

Don't fill up your cabinet with a lot of useless trash. Have only the things that are used and earn their keep.

somebody has played "a joke." Your friend Pinchosa has been here."

"Tweekanose!" said the Sand Man, "and he isn't our friend, sir, either!"

"My mistake," said Captain Pennywinkle. "But what's the difference what his name is as long as he has been here and gone?"

"That's so," said the Sand Man sadly. "Gone and the sleepy sand with him. But not all of it."

"Ho, hum!" yawned Mister Jones just then as he woke and stretched. "I do declare, but that soup made me sleepy! Why, hello everybody! I didn't know we had company."

And then Captain Pennywinkle told him all about everything.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed Davy Jones. "Stole the sleepy sand, did he? Just to keep the babies awake all night! Well, I'll soon fix that. I'll send out my magic anchor and if he is in the sea at all, we'll catch him in two minutes."

HEADACHE GONE TIRED NO MORE

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Hopes Other Women Will Benefit by Her Experience

Skowhegan, Maine.—"I was sick most of the time and could not get any work done. I had to do my work without being all tired out. I would have to lie down. One day when I was reading the paper I saw the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement and saw what it did for other women, so I thought I would try it. I have taken three bottles, and cannot begin to tell you what it has already done for me. I do all my work now and keep up the whole day long without lying down. I have no more headaches nor tired feelings. I hope every woman who takes the Vegetable Compound will get as much benefit out of it as I have."—Mrs. PERCY W. RICHARDSON, R.F.D. No. 2, Skowhegan, Maine.

You have just read how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped Mrs. Richardson. She gave it a trial after she saw what it had done for other women. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been doing good.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN (A Menu for the Stout and Thin) EAT AND—Lose Weight—Gain Weight—

One orange, 1 cup tomato bouillon, 1/2 head lettuce, 8 button radishes, 2 broiled fillets of haddock, 1 lemon, 2 cheese sandwiches, 4 tablespoons brussels sprouts, 2 tablespoons pineapple ice, 1/2 cup black coffee without sugar, 1 pint skimmed milk, 4 pieces crisp unbuttered toast.

Total calories, 1130. Protein, 269; fat, 402; carbohydrate, 459. Iron, .0192 gram.

A whole orange, rather than juice, will be found to give bulk and tend to satisfy hunger.

The cheese sandwiches are suggested as an accompaniment for the salad. They should be made of unbuttered whole wheat or gluten bread and toasted in a hot oven.

If the radishes are thinly sliced over the lettuce and one-half teaspoon grated onion sprinkled over the whole with a dash of lemon juice and a brightening of paprika a very acceptable salad is the result. Just plain head lettuce, well chilled and crisp, is delicious whether one is "plump" or thin.

One orange, 4 corn meal pancakes, 4 tablespoons maple syrup, 2 tablespoons cream, dried beef on toast, 1 cup tomato bouillon, 2 slices fried vegetable roast, 1/2 cup cream, 1/2 head lettuce, 8 button radishes, 2 broiled fillets of haddock, 2 tablespoons lemon butter, 2 cheese sandwiches, 4 tablespoons brussels sprouts, 1/2 cup custard (3 tablespoons), 2 tablespoons pineapple ice, 1 slice sponge cake, 2 tablespoons French dressing, 1 pint whole milk, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 pieces rye bread, 2 dinner rolls.

Total calories, 3670. Protein, 426; fat, 1673; carbohydrate, 1872. Iron, .0172 gram.

The vegetable roast used the day before is very good sliced and fried. Serve with creamed peas.

The same salad is planned for this menu with the exception of the dressing.

The brussels sprouts are well seasoned with butter.

The fish gains many calories by the lemon butter used in this menu. The pancakes should be made rich in protein by the use of eggs.

These sandwiches are made with butter and white bread can be used.

Poise Rests In Mind And Trained Body

BY EVANGELINE WEED Director of Personality Institute.

Physical poise is an important quality of personality. To have poise is to have charm in manner, pleasing speaking voice, graceful attitudes of body, to walk properly, to sit properly. To have poise is to have confidence in speech, to have a conversational store of current subjects. But the first impression one has of another often is through the eye, so that physical poise is duty valuable to your personality.

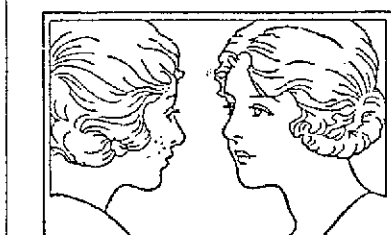

1. What is the background of poise? Self-confidence. Poise, once you have it, inspires confidence in yourself, and yet to have poise you must have self-confidence. The two go hand in hand.

2. Where does poise start? In the mind first, of course, but physically it starts in the chest! Let your chest lead you. Did you ever see a man with a sunken chest who had physical grace, or even self-confidence? A sunken chest distinctly indicates an inferiority complex, a negative state of mind. Strong minds do not permit sunken chests.

3. How does one acquire physical poise? Hold up your head, and your chest. You will sit erect, walk erect and you will have an upright attitude that has its immediate reaction on your mental state.

If your head is erect, your chest out, your walk will never be a slouchy walk, nor will it be too soldierly; the weight of your body will be carried forward on the ball of the foot, while the other foot is ready to swing forward; you will sit gracefully; you will not flop into your chair.

Kellogg's Bran did more in two weeks than medicine taken in 20 years

Out of regard for your own health, read this letter:

Gentlemen: Your "Krambled Bran," used by me as a cereal, has done more for me in two weeks than the hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine I have taken in last twenty years for constipation. It is wonderful, and it is so simple. Yours truly, Arlington H. Carman, Patchogue, N. Y.

Mr. Carman's experience has been duplicated in thousands of homes. Why does Kellogg's Bran succeed when drugs and pills fail? The answer is simple. Drugs have an unnatural effect upon the bowels. They irritate the intestines. The more they are used, the more one has to use. Finally, they have no effect at all. Kellogg's Bran STIMULATES the intestines. It cleans, sweeps and purifies them. It acts exactly as nature acts. And it is never necessary to increase the amount eaten. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to bring permanent relief to the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. For Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. That is why doctors recommend Kellogg's.

The wonderful, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran is exclusive. It is delicious—totally unlike ordinary bran. Eat two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krambled, is made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

No House can be up-to-date without it

Flax-li-num, the house insulation you hear so much about, is a felt-like material made from flax fibres. It is tough and fibrous. It never deteriorates, and because of its strength and toughness, stays in place permanently.

Flax-li-num is built into walls and roofs. It goes between the outer and inner walls of a house, or forms a lining to the roof.

A non-conductor of heat. As rubber insulates against electricity, so Flax-li-num insulates against heat. Heat transmission can now be accurately calculated. Scientific tests prove that houses with Flax-li-num require 33 1/3% less heat. And Flax-li-num will keep your house comfortable in all weather.

You are entitled to this comfort and economy

You can buy or rent a Flax-li-num insulated house. Lower fuel bills save enough so that it actually costs less to live in one of them. Ask about Flax-li-num if you buy or rent. Insist on it if you build.

Plans, estimates and expert advice on insulating your house with Flax-li-num are yours without obligation. Write us for detailed information and copy of booklet, "For Comfort and Economy." Don't build without reading this valuable booklet.

NAME PETTIGREW

LEGION EXECUTIVE

BOARD CHAIRMAN

Commander's Message Outlines New Plan of Management of Post Activities

Henry J. Pettigrew, former commander, was elected chairman of the executive committee of Onay Johnston post of the American legion at hotel Monday evening. The retiring executive committee and the new one elected at the monthly meeting of the post on Oct. 6 met jointly, the former adjourning sine die after completing its business.

New plans for conducting the activities of the post were outlined by Thomas Morrissey, commander-elect, in an address to the committee. The post elected three vice commanders instead of one this time and each will be made responsible for one department of the work. The first vice commander, Raymond Peterson, is to have permanent membership chairman. Post activities will be in charge of the second commander, George C. Dame, and welfare work for veterans of the World war in charge of the third, Harvey Pribe. Committees will be organized to assist these men in their duties.

Mr. Morrissey also urged support from the post for the legion saxophone band which has an enrollment of 35 men and is being trained by Capt. Fred Rogers, who is a member of the executive committee. He also proposed a fathers' auxiliary of the post and intimated that members of the legion civic organizations will be invited to meetings of the post in the near future.

Half a dozen members of the committee agreed to go to Green Bay on Sunday, Oct. 26, to attend the conference of legion officials of the Ninth district. H. V. Kiley, district commander, has called the conference and has asked attendance of a large number of legionnaires. Adjournment will be taken in line so members can attend the football game of Green Bay Packers and Minneapolis Marines.

A report submitted by Henry J. Pettigrew, chairman of the show committee, indicated that there was difficulty in obtaining a suitable building. Instructions were given the committee to proceed further in their negotiations so that a play now under consideration could be staged.

POST-CRESCENT

COOKING SCHOOL

STARTS TUESDAY

Women Urged to Take Notebook and Pencil to Lectures at Vocational School

Women who desire to enter their cakes in the contest conducted by the Post-Crescent cooking school must take them at the vocational school before 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, when prizes will be awarded after the class period. The school opened Tuesday afternoon and will continue for three days. The hours are from 2 to 4 o'clock.

The cooking school is conducted annually by the Post-Crescent in cooperation with the Corn Products Refining company of Chicago. The school last year was largely attended by women of the city and it is expected that even a large number will enroll this year.

It is an excellent opportunity for women to learn to make new dishes and to learn many ways in which to lighten the cooking burden. The lecturer, Mrs. Margaret Brown, is experienced in her work and will give expert advice. It is suggested that women attending take notebook and pencil so that recipes used and demonstrated may be kept for future use.

Three Appleton firms, interested in the event, have offered prizes to the winners in the cake baking contest, which is to be judged by three competent persons. "The prizes are: First, sack of Big Jo flour from the S. C. Shannon Co.; second a five pound club American cheese from the Valley Dairy Products company; third, a sack of Big Jo flour from the S. C. Shannon company; fourth, a three pound can of Chase and Sanborn coffee from Seibel Brothers.

LIONS ROAR FOR CATLIN AND HIS FOOTBALL SQUAD

Lawrence Coach Honored by Luncheon Club—Hear Arguments for Andy Gump

Mark S. Catlin, coach of the Lawrence college football team, which held the University of Iowa to a 13 to 6 win at Iowa City last Saturday, was held as a conquering hero by Appleton Lions club at the Monday luncheon in the Conway hotel. Mr. Catlin declared it was one of the best football games he had ever seen and he had the highest praise for the grit and fighting quality of his team.

"I never saw a football team fight as hard as Lawrence did at Iowa City," Mr. Catlin said. "They didn't seem to think of the odds against them, they just came into their more experienced opponents and they made a friend of every one of the 10,000 people in the stands."

"If Lawrence had more rooters at the game or if the game had not been played on a field and in surroundings entirely foreign, the score might easily have been reversed."

Mr. Catlin indicated he does not favor scheduling Lawrence against Big Ten teams because the state universities are out of Lawrence's class and the chance for injury to Lawrence men is too big a price to pay for the reputation which Lawrence wins for playing the big schools.

The candidacy of Andrew Gump for the presidency of the United States was ably presented by his spokesman, Dr. J. J. Holmes, in a campaign speech in which he described Gump as the only "chess" candidate for the presidency that America has ever had. He declared that any man who can eat as Mr. Gump does and can smoke cigars as he does without the aid of a chin is deserving of consideration for high office.

The speech made some impression, for in a straw vote taken at the close of the meeting Mr. Gump received 9 votes. Other results of the straw vote were: Coolidge 39, Davis 5, La Follette 4.

Appleton Lions will go to Oshkosh next Monday to take part in a valley booster meeting.

ON THE SCREEN

ELITE PICTURE SENT DIRECT FROM FACTORY

Direct from the laboratory to the Elite theatre is the record which Manager Neil Duffy has made for the picture, "Christina, The Hungry Heart" which starts a three day engagement tonight at his theatre. This picture, from the story by Kathleen Norris, was completed only a few days ago and is being sent to Appleton for its first showing.

The laboratory is in New York and the film was sent by express reaching here today. It is one of the rare occasions when a high class picture is sent to a town of Appleton's size.

NORMA TALMADGE AND EUGENE O'BRIEN IN GEORGE SCARBOROUGH'S PLAY

If "Her Only Way" were not such a good play as it is the real film-fan would find a visit to the New Bijou Wednesday and Thursday when Norma Talmadge is starring in the George Scarborough play well worth while in the satisfaction that comes from seeing Miss Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien once more acting together in the same scenes.

The work of these two players in "Her Only Way" registers their efforts at a time when they were each bubbling with enthusiasm, each gazing ahead to honors upon the screen and thus, working in their own interest, striving to make every scene and incident count in their favor.

These two players work out, in "Her Only Way," an interesting story of love and suspicion, intrigue and jealousy and selfish "Hiding in a highly edifying manner and the surprise finish" gives the "kick" of satisfaction that comes when the plot detectives are baffled and happiness comes to end all well.

Think Young T. R. Has Eye On Position In Cabinet

BY HARRY HUNT

Washington — Just why did Teddy Roosevelt resign his job as assistant secretary of navy after he had been nominated as the G. O. P. candidate for governor of New York?

This is a question that is receiving a seemingly absurd amount of consideration here in Washington.

Offhand, the simple and probable correct answer would seem to be that he resigned so as to be foolproof to plunge full tilt into his battle to unseat Governor Al Smith, his Democratic rival.

But simple and direct answers do not satisfy the politically suspicious here in the capital. They're always seeking some underlying motive. To be obvious, they hold, isn't polite. There must always be "something back" of everything that is done.

After cogitating on the fact that other federal office holders have not resigned in order to prosecute their campaigns that President Coolidge kept on being president; that Governor Bryan has held onto his job as governor of Nebraska; that Senators La Follette and Wheeler, following the example of Senator Harding when he was running for president, have held onto their togas pending the result of the election, these wisecracks have found an "explanation" which is interesting, whether it is accurate or not.

Teddy, this explanation goes, resigned as assistant secretary of navy in order that he might be eligible for appointment as secretary of navy in case he is defeated for governor of New York and Coolidge still wins for the presidency.

Politicians generally take it for granted Secretary Wilbur will not be retained in the official family should Coolidge succeed himself. Wilbur, cabinet critics hold, hasn't measured up. Whatever his ability, he isn't sufficiently politically minded, they say, to maneuver a departmental dreadnaught safely through the high political seas that are expected to be running through the next four years.

The speech which he delivered while out west, prior to his recent recall to Washington, and the speech which he was to have delivered at Denver, but didn't are cited as proving that he is entirely too frank and outspoken in his personal beliefs to be retained in the cabinet.

For a cabinet official must forget personal opinions and speak only approved administration and party doctrine if he is to be a bulwark of strength to his chief.

On the theory, then, that a new helmsman must be found for the navy in event of a Coolidge victory, the Roosevelt resignation is held to have cleared the way for young T. R.'s appointment in case he falls in his race for the governorship of New York.

That there is a chance Roosevelt may lose New York even though Coolidge carries the state by a substantial majority, an analysis of the New York vote for 1920 and 1922 reveals as easily possible.

In 1920 Harding swept the Empire state with a majority over Cox of 1,691,130 votes. Yet the Republican candidate for governor was elected by a bare 74,066 votes—more than one million behind the national ticket.

No one familiar with the vote-getting qualities of Governor Al Smith forces any walkaway for young Roosevelt in the state race. Nor does even the most enthusiastic Coolidge fan force any such majority for the national ticket this year as was given Harding in 1920.

In the off-year race, in 1922, Smith was the most desirable or happy decision a girl may make, especially when her heart is given unreservedly to another chap. But money is a potent influence in real life as well as in providing the motive for photoplaying and in the case of "Her Only Way" the girl might have fared even worse than she did before the chain of circumstances snapped at its weakest link and released a loving heart to join its chosen mate in the happy ending.

defeated Governor Miller by 885,988 as against Miller's victory by 74,066 two years previously—a turnover to the Democrats of some 450,000 votes. Can even a Roosevelt overturn that majority against "East Side Al"? Washington doubts it.

"She Is Skinny"

If she only knew that she could put on at least 5 pounds of good, healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrying about her peaked face and run-down looks.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the ill-smelling, nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitamins that make flesh, creates appetite, builds up the power to resist disease and chases away nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff and every day fewer people are taking it for doctors are prescribing and the people are fast learning that they can get better results with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which Schlitz Bros., Downer's Drug Store and druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand for.

It's a wonderful upbuilding medicine for children, especially after sickness, and sixty tablets only cost 60 cents.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days and if any skinny man or woman can't put on 5 pounds in 30 days, your druggist will gladly return the purchase price.

USE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL IN MANUAL TRAINING WORK

Activities in the manual training department of Appleton high school now are being conducted on the plan that will be in effect when the junior high schools are opened in 1926.

Freshmen and sophomores in the department now are concentrating on pattern making.

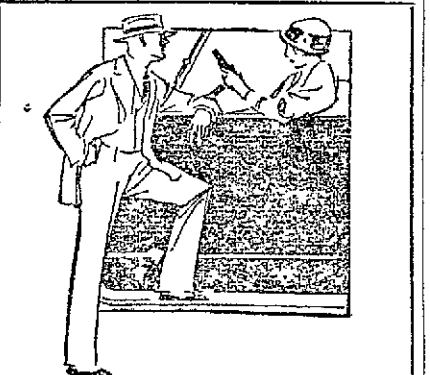

The sophomores are making small patterns involving the different principles of pattern making such as shrinkage of metals, drafts of patterns and the finish of patterns. Work along this line is limited because of small means. This difficulty is overcome by connecting up the pattern and foundry work in a very efficient manner. All this work is elementary pattern work, merely getting the principles.

The freshmen are working on the handling of wood working tools. Emphasis is placed on the fact that the tools must be sharp for good work. Among the articles being made are hardwood bread boards, drawing boards and T-squares.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Nissen of Owen visited their daughter, Miss Elsie Nissen, on Sunday.

All Fat People Should Know This

Fat people owe a debt of gratitude to the discoverer of the now famous Marmola Prescription. And they ought to be still more grateful because this effective obesity remedy is now prepared in tablet form. Marmola Prescription Tablets can be obtained at all drug stores the world over at the reasonable price of one dollar for a box. Or you can secure them direct by sending the price to the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. This now leaves no excuse for dieting or violent exercise for the reduction of the overfat body to normal. adv.

Look To Right

Automobile Wrecking Concern Says Majority of Accidents Happen at Corners Because Drivers are Careless

To steer clear of accidents, look out at street intersections for the man on the right. That is advice given out by an Appleton automobile wrecking concern. Of all wrecked cars the firm has been called upon to tow into the city, the vast majority occurred at cross roads or street intersections. And of these accidents, almost every one was the result of some one's carelessness about watching the driver at the right. Drivers should respect the universal right-of-way rules and not take precedence over the driver approaching from the right, it was pointed out.
